Governor Pledges to Hold Line on Taxes

Cong Flushed Out Of Caves, Tunnels In Coastal Sector

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Korean Marines and Vietnamese paratroopers have flushed a large Viet Cong force out of hideouts in hundreds of caves and tunnels in the coastal hills near Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

Six Skyraider fighter-bombers caught one fleeing guerrilla band in the open as "Operation Jefferson" drew to a close, and the pilots claimed that 60 of the black-clad insurgents were killed.

Claim 278 Cong Dead

In five days of fighting, the Koreans and Vietnamese claimed 278 Viet Cong killed at a cost of light casualties to themselves. The Communists launched a counterattack Tuesday night, but evidently decided to flee today, leaving a major guerrilla base area in Phu Yen Province to the Allied force, spokesmen said.

The Viet Cong broke off contact at midday. Operation Jefferson relied heavily on artillery and air support, and the Koreans used nonlethal tear gas to drive some of the Communists from their hideouts.

The U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division lost one of its huge flying helicopter cranes in a crash near Mang Yang Pass, in the central highlands 275 miles northeast of Saigon. All aboard were killed. The craft normally carries a three - man crew, but military spokesmen did not know immediately how many persons were aboard or the cause of the crash.

As the fighting raged in the south, the director of the U.S. Agency for International Development, David Bell, announced that American commodity assistance to South Viet Nam would be doubled in 1966 to $400 million in foodstuffs. The United States has been forced to ship rice to the war-ravaged country, which normally is a rice exporter.

To Increase Aid

Bell, on an inspection tour, said financial assistance for such other imports as fertilizer and construction material would be increased considerably but probably would not double the 1965 total of $130 million.

U.S. Marines ranging out of their big base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, scrapped with the Communists for the first time in days of fruitless patrolling. The Viet

LBJ Eyes $13 Billion Viet Extra

Goldberg to Brief U.N. on Peace Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans to ask Congress next week for an extra appropriation of almost $13 billion to cover the costs of the Viet Nam war, sources report.

The money would be for the fiscal year ending next June 30, but only about $5 billion of the total is slated for actual expenditure by then. The $5 billion would be spent to replace military stocks.

Matter of Prudence

One source said the remainder of the funds is being sought "in case we need it in Viet Nam — that's the best way of putting it." He said it was a matter of prudence rather than planning for an extended military operation.

Added to the $1.7 billion voted by Congress last August and $700 million approved in May, the new appropriation would bring the total for increased action in Viet Nam to $14 billion plus.

Reports of the request for extra money came as the lull in the bombing of North Viet Nam targets headed into its 13th day — a lull that Sen. Richard B. Russell says may be extended for two more weeks.

Russell, Georgia Democrat who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee, questioned both the tactics of the bombing suspension and its chances for bringing about meaningful negotiations with the Communists.

"I certainly would not like to be the first naval pilot to fly over those SAM (missile) sites after the delays," he said in an interview.

Time to Catch Breath: Greene

In Honolulu, Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., Marine Corps commandant, said the lull is giving the Communists time to catch their breath.

Greene said "during the standdown, the people there (in North Viet Nam) can make the most of it in repairs, replacements and rehabilitation."

More U.S. ground forces will be needed in South Viet Nam if the current U.S. peace offensive fails, he added.

In another Honolulu interview, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said he would recommend resumption of bombing of North Viet Nam targets if it is decided the Hanoi regime is unwilling to go to the negotiating table.

As the bombing lull continued, Johnson's peace campaign appeared to have run into stone

Dirksen Signals 'Society' Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen signaled a coalition effort today to cut back "Great Society" program funds in President Johnson's new budget.

The White House predicts the budget will total $110 billion to $115 billion.

High Spots Of Rocky's 8th Address

Public Opinion — "It is clear that the people generally approve and support state actions of recent years."

Budget Prospects—"...we face significant, mandated increases ...But they can and will be met within the existing revenue structure."

Crime — "Our citizens should not have to live in uncertainty and fear...They are entitled to expect that their communities, streets, parks, places of business and homes are safe from criminals."

* * *

Narcotics — "I shall propose stiffer, mandatory prison sentence for these men (drug peddlers) without conscience who wreck the lives of innocent youngsters for profit. Society has no worse enemy."

Crime Victims—"I shall make recommendations ... for paying compensation to victims of violent crime, as well as to the 'Good Samaritan' who voluntarily attempts to prevent crime."

Education — "I shall recommend certain specific improvements in existing state programs for meeting the state's fair share of ever increasing school costs, with emphasis on educational quality and opportunity for all."

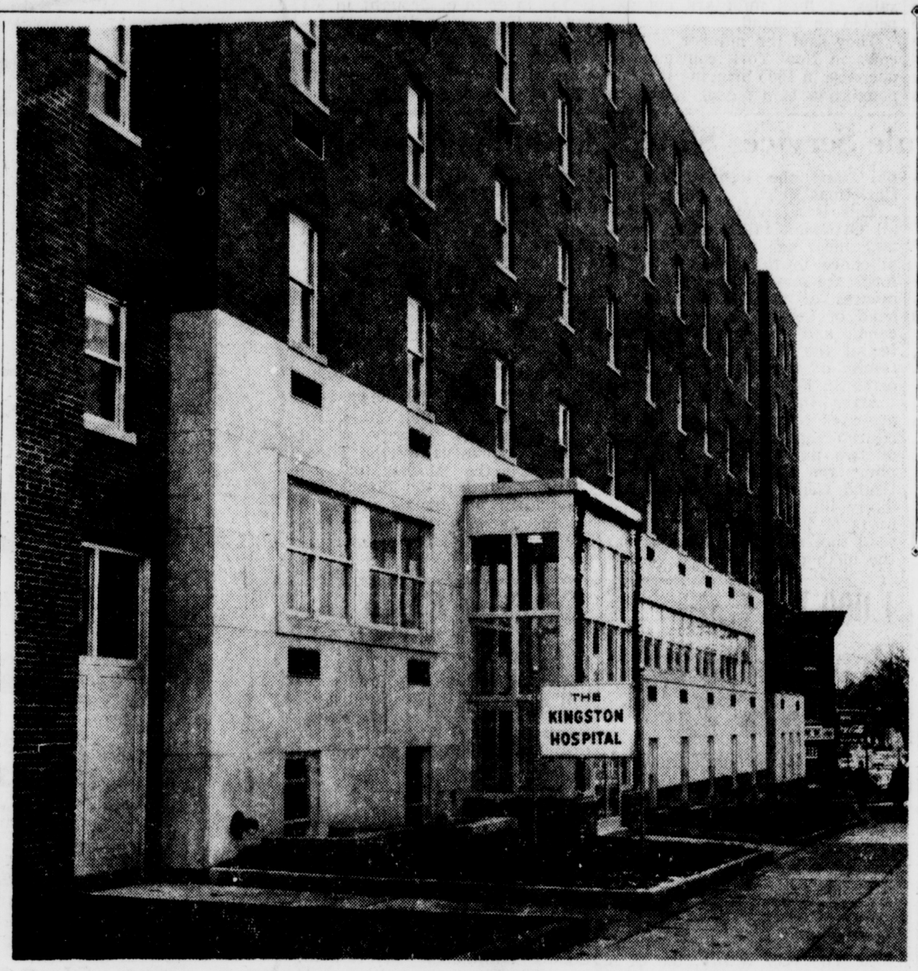

"With growing educational opportunities and expanded training programs, we have the chance to achieve our goal of full employment and reduced welfare rolls."

Hospital-Medical Expenses — "We must act further to hold down hospital costs and assure medical care of the highest quality for all of our citizens."

Reapportionment — As a first order of business, I urge your honorable bodies to act swiftly on a fair and valid plan for legislative reapportionment so we may turn our attention to dealing with the challenges before us."

NEW HOSPITAL ENTRANCE—This is the new main entrance of Kingston Hospital, 396 Broadway, part of the recently completed six-level wing which cost $1,107,624 to construct. Open house for public inspection has been set for Sunday from 2 to 4 p. m. The new addition provides a net gain of 52 beds. Federal Hill-Burton funds provided $514,554 toward construction costs. The remainder was raised by public subscription. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr) (Other photos on Page 15)

Mayor Cuts Fund Need, Proposes 3 New Taxes

A "net" sum of $253,633 must be added to the 1966 budget "if we are to run our city the way yo and I want it to be," Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan Tuesday night told the Common Council, which received three tax proposals estimated to realize a substantial part of that total.

Earlier Tuesday he had announced that ne $400,000 more would be needed, but he fixed the above total at "the net." He indicated in his talk last night, however, that with proper cooperation the real estate tax cculd be cut by some $400,000.

Two proposed taxes, presented last night, at three per cent each, would be a telephone tax estimated to bring $32,250, a tax on electricity use alone, due for an estimated $56,500, and the so-called "sewer" tax, actually involving water bill payment, which would bring an estimated $75,000. New sewer work, however, he indicated, is not to be heavy this year.

Additional money needed, he noted, would include $151,000 to cover pay boosts for city employes.

Schwenk Rate $68.30

The budget, as presented by Mayor John J. Schwenk, fixes the tax rate at $68.30, with total appropriations for all city purposes at $1,971,231.21 and $2,792,648.21 to be raised by taxes. The tax rate is two cents lower than that in 1965.

The council adjourned subject to call of Alderman-at-Large Francis R. Koenig. Mayor Garragan indicated Tuesday that it would take at least 10 days to revise the budget.

In opening his talk last night, which drew solid applause from the some 70 present, Mayor Garraghan said he meant "nothing detrimental to my predecessor. He was a good mayor."

He then emphasized that "from now on the incoming mayor will have the opportunity to make his own budget." This sentiment had also been expressed by Mayor John J. Schwenk before he left office.

Among urgent city needs, he said, was new public works equipment, which, he estimates, will cost some $70,000. He noted that the State Board of Audit and Control holds that replacement of equipment after five years of depreciation should become a budget item.

He said he will try for a higher equalization rate, and intends to add $4,000 to the City Library appropriation, now at $29,000. He indicated that he did

New Plan Aimed At Discouraging Tax Delinquency

A new procedure aimed at discouraging delinquency in tax payment was introduced by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan at Tuesday night's meeting of the Common Council, which approved a $280,000 tax anticipation note, and left in committee a proposed minor plan change affecting downtown urban renewal.

The proposed urban renewal change provides for revision of parking plans in the proposed housing development area.

Request for the tax anticipation note is customary at this time of year to provide funds until the city begins collecting forthcoming taxes.

Mayor Garraghan's proposed tax collection plan would add a charge of one half of one per cent for each month of delinquency or part thereof for those who delay too long in tax payment. The new charge would be

Schwenk Remarks On Statements By Garraghan

In a statement today to The Freeman, former Mayor John J. Schwenk made the following comments on Mayor Garraghan's message to tne Common Council:

The charter of the City of Kington requires that the Mayor prepare a tentative budget, hold a public hearing and present same to the City Clerk on or before December 31st, giving his reasons for disapproval of any estimates submitted to him.

At the public hearing on December 30th, I stated, "No provisions for across the board or other salary increases were provided for in the budget, because I was in no position to know how such increased costs would be financed". Mayor Garraghan has publicly stated that he was opposed to any increases in the tax rate.

The budget which I had prepared, provided the money necessary to liquidate the deficit and increased appropriations for general city operations. The snow and ice appropriation alone was

Travia Critical; Spad Calls Message 'Sensible Action'

Drug Addiction, Pollution, Schools And Old Age Problems Main Targets

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller promised today to hold the tax line in 1966 and seek better ways of meeting school costs.

In an election-year message to the opening session of a sharply divided Legislature, Rockefeller also pledged a harder fight against crime and urged an all-out assault on narcotics addiction and dope-peddlers.

His eighth annual "State of the State" message avoided several controversial issues.

Most Unclear: Travia

The message drew immediate fire from Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, a Democrat.

He charged the governor with failing to come to grips with several major problems, including school aid and fiscal problems of big cities.

Travia asserted that much of the message was platitudinous and unclear.

GOP State Chairman Carl Spad viewed the Rockefeller presentation as a "moderate course of sensible action."

The Republican governor addressed a joint, opening meeting of the 189th legislative session. Political control of the houses is split — for the first time in 30 years — between Republicans in the Senate and Democrats in the Assembly.

Rockefeller, who has his legislative critics in both parties, reminded them at the outset of his address that he travelled extensively throughout the state in recent weeks to sound out public opinion on state affairs.

In an apparent reply to those who maintain he cannot win his third-term bid next November, the governor asserted:

"It is clear that the people generally approve and support state actions of recent years."

His message was drafted with broad strokes and gave few specifi Definitive proposals will be contained in the new state budget, due Jan. 18, and in a series of special messages.

Hospital's Event Is Set Sunday

Public Invited To See New Wing

The Kingston Hospital's new six-level wing will be opened for public inspection at an open house observance Sunday, between 2 and 4 p. m., it was announced today by Richard M. Kalish, president of the Board of Trustees.

The new wing, which extends along Broadway to the intersection with Foxhall Avenue and connects with the main portion of the hospital, increased the bed capacity from 153 to 205 beds. It provides new adult medical and surgical beds, a new physical therapy section, a pediatric section which includes for the first time a suite for teenage patients.

Provides Chronic Care

An entirely new chronic care section has been added, with every possible effort made to provide for patient comfort as well as the most modern means of good nursing care.

Classroom facilities for the School of Nursing take up the lower level of the wing. These are designed so that they may double as emergency facilities for up to 50 patients in the event of a civilian disaster.

Also provided in the new construction is an attractive new main entrance leading to the admitting, business and administrative offices which will provide for greater operating efficiency.

With a thought to the not-too-distant future, the Board of Trustees included two additional floors on the new wing, to be finished and equipped at a later date. Incorporating these floors

People Blame Bombing On Leaders of Hanoi

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Two North Vietnamese army officers captured in Laos claimed today that many North Vietnamese blame the Hanoi government for U.S. bombing of their country.

"The people are angry in their hearts with their leaders," said Cadet Officer Pham Dinh Thao, 30, in an interview, "but they are too frightened to oppose them."

Pham said the North Vietnamese people know America is bombing their country because their government is sending men and supplies to the "big war" in South Viet Nam. He said his people are not interested in fighting in the South.

"The American bombings have caused too much damage and taken too many lives," Pham said through an interpreter. "The people of North Viet Nam want the bombing to end. They want peace. Everyone has had enough."

Pham's commanding officer, Le Huy Linh, 37, also said "many" North Vietnamese blamed their government for the bombing. Both he and Pham said American bombs had fallen on many nonmilitary targets and killed many civilians.

Le said 102 bombs fell last September on his village, in the southern province of Vinh, and kiled 22 civilians.

Pham, also from Vinh Province, said U.S. planes bombed the leper hospital in the Quynh Luu district of Vinh, killed 80 persons and wounded 100.

Le said U.S. pilots often mistake peasants working in fields for troops on patrol. He said most military installations are now hidden away in "the forests and the mountains."

Le said, however, that American bombing in August and early September destroyed "a lot" of military installations.

Causes Food Shortages

Both men said the bombing has caused severe food shortages in North Viet Nam.

They said food cannot be transported from one area to another because all major bridges and railways have been smashed.

People in Vinh, said Pham, now can eat fish only once every three months. They can have a one-pound ration of meat

Plan Application Changes InLinderman Rezoning Bid

A new application with changed plans is to be made in an effort to gain an apartment development in the Linderman Avenue area, Attorney S. James Mathews, counsel for the petitioner, announced at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting.

He said:

Income Fund Enterprises Corporation of Jamacia, L. I. has asked me to anounce it is withdrawing its petition for rezoning 172-238 Linderman Avenue from an RR clasification to an R-5. The corporation is preparing a new petition for an R-4 zoning category which would permit a multiple residence not exceeding two stories in height, rather than the first sought three story limitation. This petition will be filed in a few days.

The decision of the firm is based on two factors. I have advised them as its attorney, that there is some doubt as to whether business of the old Common Council can be passed upon by the new aldermen who took office on January 1. Rather than risk the possibility of prolonged litigation, they have decided a new petition is preferable.

The more important reason for starting afresh however, is their sincere desire to remove as far as posible, any misconceptions of the project; which they believe will be a distinct asset to Kingston. It is not the desire of Income Fund Enterprises to commence their garden apartment complex under the cloud of apprehension and fear. It is their hope by starting over again, that they will be able to convince the residents of Kingston of their sincerity and ability to build their project in a man-

Lindsay Seeks Interim Settlement To Get Subways, Buses Operating

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay entered strike negotiations today hopeful of getting subways and buses back in operation before a final solution is reached.

Unexpectedly joining the talks, Lindsay sought an "interim settlement" for the transportation paralysis that has gripped the city for five days, since the day he took office.

Deputy Mayor Robert Price announced that Lindsay hoped to get the Transit Authority, and two striking unions to work out a plan for resumed subway and bus service while labor negotiations continue.

Lindsay's press aide said the mayor intended to stay with the talks until an agreement for service is worked out.

Price said it was felt an interim agreement could be reached within "a general framework" which would leave details of a new labor contract to be settled by bargaining.

MIKE QUILL

At the same time, the Fifth Avenue Association, an organization of merchants along the famed shopping thoroughfare, asked President Johnson to "intervene by urging the members of the Transport Workers Union to return to work while negotiations continue."

Meantime, the morning work rush began to abate. Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes, overseeing the flow, said drivers apparently got an earlier start today.

In an effort to ease the more clogged evening travel rush, the city recommended that businesses in lower Manhattan voluntarily stagger work hours.

"By spreading the peak over a longer period it relieves the pressure," Barnes said. "We'll be able to cope with it."

The bargaining talks were thrown into a turmoil Tuesday by the jailing and collapse of

Proposes Basic Areas In Assault on Crime

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller called today for an all-out effort to stem the state's rising crime rate so that New Yorkers may live in a climate free from "uncertainty and fear."

He proposed to the Legislature sharply increased activity in these three basic areas:

Narcotics — Harsh, new penalties for dope pushers and an expanded program for treating drug addicts.

Victims — Direct financial assistance for the "innocent victims of violent crime" and their families and for "Good Samaritans" who come to their aid.

State Action — More state assistance for local police forces, improved State Police facilities and an education program designed to prevent first offenders from returning to crime.

In his "State of the State" message, Rockefeller pointed out that New York was no exception to the rising crime rate across the nation.

"Our citizens should not have to live in uncertainty and fear," he declared. "They are entitled to expect that their communities, streets, parks, places of business and homes are safe from criminals."

Rockefeller said that, while fighting crime is primarily the responsibility of local government, "the state must continue to extend and step up its aid to local governments and its citizens."

He tagged drug addiction as "a prime cause of crime," observing that addicts were responsible for half of the crimes committed in New York City alone.

"In the heart of every parent," he said, "lies the hidden fear that this terrible tragedy could come to one of his own children — as indeed it could."

Rockefeller said it was time that New York assumed the leadership in combatting the spread of drug addiction.

At the same time, he maintained that the federal government has a "moral and financial" responsibility to help because it had been unable to stop the traffic of drugs from abroad.

First, he proposed changing the law so that prison sentences would be mandatory for dope peddlers. He said he would make a specific recommendation on this point later.

Next, Rockefeller promised a special message spelling out a program of "human renewal" for drug addicts.

This program, he said, would provide the same kind of financial assistance for local treatment facilities as the urban renewal program now affords — two thirds of the cost financed by the federal government and the remaining third shared by the state and the participating local government.

"Certainly human renewal should command as much support as urban renewal," he asserted.

Obviously such a program would require action by Congress.

"We have every right under the circumstances to expect the federal government to shoulder a major portion of the cost," he declared

Rockefeller also promised specific recommendations later for paying compensation to the victims of crime and persons who try to help them. He said he was awaiting a report of a com-

See Continued Price Trends, Costs for Ulster's Farmers

Ulster County farmers can expect recent trend in prices and costs to continue in 1966.

So concludes Robert D. Guzewich, cooperative extension agent, after attending a two-day economic conference at Cornell University.

Higher Costs

As Cornell farm economist Kenneth L. Robinson summed it up "higher costs for equipment, taxes, land and labor will just about offset the slightly higher prices for milk, eggs and other livestock products. That means little if any additional net income for the farmer."

Rising government payments are expected to improve farm incomes in some areas of the United States. However, Ulster County farmers won't benefit too much because the crops covered are relatively unimportant here, reported agent Guzewich.

He pointed to the continued strong demands for livestock and other farm products resulting from high nonfarm incomes as helping the farmer.

Robinson also finds encouragement for Ulster County farmers in the bumper crops produced in many areas of the county in 1965. He anticipates that this record production will hold down the cost of major feed ingredients during much of 1966.

Sees New Records

Looking at the effects of this bumper crop nationally and internationally he expects exports of feed grains and soybeans to establish new records. He also reported that a large part of the wheat, rice and dairy products exported in 1966 will be financed under government programs.

Another trend noted in the agricultural picture is the decline in surplus holdings. Except for cotton, very little of this year's record harvest will be added to existing storage stocks because of continued high demand at home and a large volum of exports. Robinson described surplus stocks of grain and dairy products as "already well below the highs reached in the early 1960's."

On the deficit side of the ledger as far as the farmer is concerned will be labor. Not only will it cost more but good labor will be increasingly difficult to find, the economist said. He listed the major influences on the labor scene as more competition for labor from expanding nonfarm jobs, rising wage rates in most industries and possible new minimum wage legislation in 1966.

Dairymen Better Off

Ulster County and other area dairymen can look forward to modest improvement in milk prices during the coming year.

At the same time, Cooperative Extension Agent Guzewich and Profs. Lowell C. Cunningham and Robert P. Story of Cornell pointed out that manufacturing milk prices may strengthen and lower feed prices are forcasted.

The agent and Cornell specialists added these sobering notes. Most items other than feed are expected to creep higher and sales of fluid milk are not expected to expand.

They said the number of milk cows in New York continued to decrease in 1965 bringing the cow population 14 per cent below the peak established 10 years earlier. prices for both milk and slaughter cows to continue fairly strong during the coming year.

Cunningham, Story and Guzewich added this interesting observation: Despite the widespread drought during 1964 and 1965 in much of the State, milk production per cow continued to rise sharply. This increase from 1964 to 1965 amounted to 300 pounds, pushing production per cow above 9,400. This upswing will undoubtedly continue into 1966, they added.

Agent Guzewich concluded that the continued upswing in milk production on a per cow basis was very evident in Ulster County too in spite of drought in '64 and '65. The recent Ulster County D.H.I. Summary on 42 herds throughout the County reported an all time high average of 13,687 lbs. of milk per cow.

Orthodox Yule Services Slated January 6 to 9

St. Gregory's Eastern Orthodox Catholic Church, Route 376 and Van De Water Drive, Wappingers Falls, will hold its Christmas service Jan. 7.

The Christmas Holy Days for the Orthodox Christians is strictly a religious observance steeped with tradition and customs of its people. These traditional observances are preceded with a 40-day advent period.

Christmas service will begin an Jan. 6 with the Royal Hours at 8 a. m. and the Divine Liturgy of St. Basil the Great at 10 a. m. and climaxed with the singing of the Christmas "Tropar" and the lighting of the Christmas light.

This is a strict fast day for all Orthodox faithful. The evening meal has a particular significance in that special lenten foods are served. The meal commences at eventide when the head of the household lights a candle and places it at the center of the table to remind the family of the Christ child who came to light the world.

After the meal, the family prepares to attend the evening church vigil which is composed of two parts, the Grand Compline and Matins. During the Grand Compline, the church is dimly lit, psalms are sung and parts of the Old Testament are read foretelling the prophecy of the birth of Christ.

The birth of Christ is highlighted in the Matin part of the service when the priest comes forth from the sanctuary with the gospel and announces the birth of Christ child. Songs of praises are then sung by the choir and the congregation. After the service, traditional Christmas carols are sung by the entire congregation.

Divine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom will be held on Jan. 7, Christmas Day at 10 a. m. Jan. 9, Divine Liturgy at 10 a .m. commemorating the Theotokos as the Mother of the Christ child. Sunday, Jan. 9, Divine Liturgy will be at 10:15 a. m. in observance of St. Stephen the first Christian martyr.

1,000 PC Gain Reported in U.S. Deaths in War

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. battle deaths in the Viet Nam war shot up by nearly 1,000 per cent last year over 1964, Defense Department figures showed today.

A total of 1,365 American servicemen were killed in combat with the Communists in 1965. The year before, the U. S. death toll in combat totaled only 146 men.

The sharp rise in battle deaths roughly kept pace with the increase in U. S. forces in Viet Nam and with the deeper involvement of the United States in the ground and air fighting.

At the end of 1965, there were 181,392 American servicemen stationed in the country, compared with only 23,000 at the end of 1964 when the United States still was carrying on mainly an advisory effort.

Follows Political Tradition

Stamp Rocky's Message Re-Election Document

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's 5,000 - word message to the Legislature could be boiled down and translated into a single, short sentence — "Let's not rock the boat."

By its avoidance of controversy and its omission of costly new program proposals, the message is stamped clearly as a re-election document.

Hopes to Renew Lease

In this sense the message follows political tradition.

Previous governors seeking to renew their lease on the Executive Mansion have found it prudent to speak softly and carry a small stick upon entering a re-election year.

The object is to ease through the legislative session without raising state spending to the point where taxes also must be increased and to refrain from provoking animosity in any voting bloc.

Accordingly, the Republican governor promises to meet all the existing state revenue structure." No tax increases.

At the same time, he indicates obliquely that he is prepared to produce a little additional state aid for the public schools, to mollify the potent education lobby.

The keystone of his message is an all-out attack on crime, somewhat reminiscent of enterprises launched by former Governors Thomas E. Dewey and Averell Harriman.

This prompted political cynics at the Capitol to observe that, whenever a governor has little new to offer, he falls back on the crime issue.

Safest of All Ventures

Regardless of Rockefeller's motivation, cracking down on criminals is regarded as just about the safest of all political ventures. Everyone is for it — except the criminals, of course.

In somewhat the same category are Rockefeller's other major proposals — drives against water and air-pollution and efforts to help the ill, the aging and the underprivileged.

By way of contrast, the governor omitted any mention of probably the most controversial issue that will come before the Legislature — relaxing of New York's rigid divorce law.

Conspicuously also, Rockefeller failed to renew such highly debatable proposals as repealing the railroad full-crew laws, expanding the state's public housing program and revamping the Condon-Wadlin law barring strikes by public employes.

Last year, for the first time, Rockefeller had to deal with a Legislature firmly controlled by Democrats. His 1965 tactics were aggressive, and he fared well — getting the sales tax on the books and winning increases in the cigarette tax and in motor - vehicle registration charges.

Bound to Be Wrangling

This set him up well financially for his 1966 re-election drive.

Now he faces a politically split Legislature — an Assembly controlled by Democrats and a Republican-ruled Senate. There is bound to be some internal wrangling, and Rockefeller could get caught in the middle.

But the governor doesn't want to fight with anybody. In the closing portion of his message, he said:

"Though we may be divided politically, let us be united in our purposes — to serve the wishes, needs and aspirations of all New Yorkers with dedication, fairness, imagination and responsibility."

In other words, let's not rock the boat.

Rochester Couple Learns of Son's Death in Battle

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Parents of a 23-year-old soldier were informed of their son's death in Viet Nam fighting only hours after they had finished reading a letter from him saying he had not yet seen any action.

Pfc. Noel M. Bartolf died Jan. 2 after suffering bullet wound in his left side, the Defense Department told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartolf of Rochester Tuesday.

The elder Bartolf said just a few hours before the Defense Department communique, he and his wife had been reading a letter from their son, describing how he spent Christmas Eve with the Vietnamese people.

Bartolf described his son as a "jovial boy" who quit his job with a Rochester bakery to enlist in the Army in 1962. He was a graduate of John Marshall High School here where he earned varsity letters in wrestling, football and track.

Bartolf, who was attached to the 173rd Airborne Division, was last home on leave Dec. 13.

The Bartolfs live at 51 Holcroft Road.

$100,000 Job-Training Program Is Approved

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A labor spokesman says a $100,000 job-training program for New York State is the first union project to gain approval from the federal Neighborhood Youth Corps.

The spokesman for Operating Engineers Union 545 of Syracuse said Tuesday the project would train 60 "rod and chain" men between 18 and 21 to help surveyors. They eventually would earn up to $2.65 an hour.

Gov. Rockefeller congratulated the union on its 21-week program and said in a telegram that surveyors and helpers were sorely needed in the state's highway program.

State agencies are cooperating with the union to recruit trainees, who will learn the craft in Syracuse, Albany and Elizabethtown at $1.25 an hour.

Syracuse Prof Named

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Howard H. Ham, a Syracuse University professor, is the new general secretary of the Methodist Church Board of Education's division of the local church.

Dr. Ham, a professor of religious education, was elected Tuesday to serve as general administrator of the division's educational program.

Vols Note Plans For Convention Set for Kingston

Plans for the 31st annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association to be held in Kingston on July 28, 29, and 30, were discussed at a meeting of the convention committee Monday night at the rooms of the Exempt Firemen's Association on East O'Reilly Street.

The annual banquet and entertainment will take place on Thursday, July 28, the opening date of the convention. The business session and election of officers will be on Thursday and the annual firemen's parade, which anually brings the convention to a close, will be on Saturday. Time and place of the banquet will be announced as will be the starting time of the parade.

Honorary chairman will be Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, and Fire Chief James M. Brett has been named grand marshall of the parade.

Rodney DuBois, president of the county association, will serve as a member of the Convention Committee with Second Ward Supervisor Addison Jones as general chairman. Named temporary secretary of the convention committee was Fred C. Harder, who has served as secretary of the county association for many years.

Other officials named to the Convention Committee are:

Augustus Lovy, treasurer; Miller Locke, program and entertainment; Edwin Kolts, trophies and badges; Charles Reis and Leon Studt, refreshments; Joseph L. Murphy, retired Kingston fire chief, reception committee.

Last year's convention was held in Highland where the association was the guest of the Highland firemen. This year the host will be the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association of Kingston.

Plans were discussed in regard to the banquet and entertainment and other phases of the convention were also discussed. All volunteer fire companies of the city are invited to send delegates to the meetings of the convention committee and offer suggestions for the entertainment of the guests.

Announcement of a parade chairman will be made at a later date.

The matter of a budget for entertainment was discussed and an outline presented on the funds necessary. The next meeting of the convention committee will be held on Monday, Jan. 10 at the same place and time when further plans will be presented.

Ban Summer Bathing In Lake Erie Area

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Bathing has been banned this summer in Lake Erie off Hamburg Town Park in suburban Hamburg because of pollution, the Erie County Health Department has announced.

Dr. William E. Mosher, the health commissioner, also said the bathing area would remain closed in 1966 unless further tests and visual inspections showed a reduction in the pollution.

In a letter to the Hamburg Town Board, Mosher said 16 samplings of water along the beach, taken last summer, contained a bacterial count exceeding the legal limit for bathing.

The contents of the letter were revealed Tuesday.

4-H Has Holiday Reunion, Party

The Port Ewen Reformed Church Hall was the setting last Thursday evening for the 4-H Christmas Jubilee.

The invitations were extended to the president of the Ulster County Cooperative Extension Service, Mrs. Carl Dedy of Lomontville, the 4-H Executive Committee, 4-H Camp Committee, The Senior Camp Staff, former 4-H members, now college students, and the present 4-H high school seniors.

William Dietrich, Wallkill Central High School Counselor and 4-H Camp Director, delivered a message to the group pointing up the need of being balanced in one's spiritual and everyday life in order to achieve educationally.

Jamie Rattray, Port Ewen, assistant 4-H camp director and Denise Franklin, New Paltz, special assistant to 4-H Camp program, were in charge of the recreation for the evening. Mrs. Thurlow Weed Jr., New Paltz, arranged decorations. Mrs. Robert Toogood, Port Ewen, was chairman of refreshments with the assistance of Mrs. Tiami Riep, Mrs. Harrison Cornish and members of the Anderson 4-H Club of Port Ewen.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 5, 1966

AMERICA IN YEAR 2000

Though Americans generally purport to be skeptical of seers and visionaries, prediction of our society's future has long been a favorite sport in this country. This may be so because of the very nature of our society, whose rapid changes in the past invite speculation about changes to come.

One of the most interesting recent essays in prediction is a short piece by Clare Boothe Luce. Writing in McCall's about what America may be like by the year 2000, Mrs. Luce goes beyond the usual cataloguing of possible wonders. She does note some of the things that scientists and engineers talk of—flying submarines, medical diagnosis by computer, organ transplants, hovering sky houses and laboratories, hotels built on the ocean surface, thousand-passenger planes, and so on. But she prudently admits that "our wildest speculations, as 1966 is ushered in, may seem merely timid predictions as we near the end of this century."

The thing that gives Mrs. Luce's article its special interest is her vision of what America may be like and of what America might be like. If the swift change we are experiencing is not firmly guided "at the political, sociological and physical levels where it is affecting our lives adversely," she writes, by 2000 Americans in great numbers may be emigrating to other lands "in full flight from the vast slum made of their own country by their parents' indifference to the side effects of history's greatest revolution." But she also foresees that if the present generation were to make a start at "directing the revolution for the betterment," then America by the turn of the century could be a place of ordered beauty in which men would work in concert to eliminate both material poverty and poverty of spirit.

The message is a simple but important one—and the more noteworthy because it comes not from an architect of the Great Society, but from one who is known to be a political conservative. America's revolutionary development cannot be left to chance, but must be directed with imagination and energy.

Headline: Humphrey's Role Difficult but not Impossible. Another way of saying that politics is the difficult art of the possible.

Carrie Nation's first big anti-liquor raid was 65 years ago — but judging by the oceans of liquor consumed in 1965 she didn't carry the nation with her.

RED CROSS REPORT

The good things men do are frequently crowded out of the day's news by the conflict and strife in the world around us.

But a news account the other day, telling of the past year's work by the American Red Cross, brought these two opposites together by showing how man's generous actions were instrumental in combattting some of the suffering caused by the number one newsmakers; wars, disasters, accidents and the other ills of this earth.

The report tells how 2,000,000 Americans who contributed their time and talents as Red Cross volunteers and another 28,222,100 Americans who contributed their funds as Red Cross members joined hands in a mission of mercy to aid those made homeless by catastrophe, to serve the men on military duty and their families at home, to provide life-giving blood for the ill and injured, to give safety and health training to millions, and to provide our youth with opportunities to grow in character and spirit by serving others less fortunate.

This outpouring of mercy was accomplished at a total cost of $108,081,320 for the year, one of the busiest the Red Cross has experience since World War II. The Viet-Nam conflict brought a sharp increase in its services to the nation's armed forces. The mounting needs for blood in our hospitals brought a record 2,775,200 blood donations. Water safety training certificates totaling 2,534,000—another record—went to persons completing the Red Cross courses. Disaster assistance valued at $15,770,819 was given to hundreds of thousands of victims of storms, floods and other catastrophes.

All this and much more was accomplished by people whose main concern was to help others with their funds, their service, their blood and their belief in the principle that all men are brothers,.

Pictures of the diamond on Luci's finger were printed everywhere. It was every girl's dream come true—to show the whole world her engagement ring.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

IF YOU ARE "OUT" YOU ARE "IN," SO WHAT ELSE IS NEW?

The Foreign Minister of Ruritania, who once spent a good many years in Washington and keeps up with what is euphemistically called progress in the United States, was trying to brief a young Ruritanian diplomat who was being sent to the UN.

"My dear fellow," he was saying, "don't presume for a moment that the good marks in English that you got in school really mean that you know the language as the Americans use it. It's really a quaint culture you are going to encounter. There's always a craze in phrases. You never say 'increase' or 'intensify,' you always say 'escalate.' You'll want to be 'in,' of course. But the first thing you must know is that to be 'in' you must be 'out.' To be way out on the Left is the best way to establish yourself as really way 'in.' If you are a professor in the big capitalistic country of the United States, the way to develop a position of Page One respect in your world is to proclaim your 'alienation' from your culture. Then the sociologists will write books about you. If you set up as a sort of road company state department and send letters to Ho Chi Minh, or even go to Hanoi at the invitation of an American Communist, you will build up your reputation for being a truly provocative teacher.

"Over in the law school of your university they may be telling the students that the Logan Act forbids monkeying in foreign policy matters with foreign leaders to pressure the executive and Congress. But it is tacitly understood that the Logan Act doesn't apply to professors. The more outrageous you are as an 'out,' the more certain you are to remain 'in.'

"The boys and girls in America all conform, even when they are not conforming. You conform, of course, when you take a job with a big corporation and settle down in a suburb to raise an average family of three-and-one-half children. But if you don't want to conform and wish to be 'in' by being 'out' you also follow a standardized ritual. If you are a boy, you affect a girl's hair-do. You declare war to the death against the necktie business. You go barefooted and you rub your clothes in the coal bin instead of sending them to the laundry. Your uniform and your 'pad' will tell a good General Motors executive who goes slumming in Greenwich Village that the inhabitants of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, are really free souls by comparison when it comes to dressing and furnishing their houses. You will, of course, conventionally smoke 'pot,' which is one of the thirty conventional slang words for marijuana.

"The politicians in America all conform, too. Everybody who is anybody in politics attacks 'extremism,' which is understandable. But to prove your sincerity, you must attack extremism in the most extreme language that you can command. Thus it isn't enough to say that the John Birch Society follows a rather harmless leader who sometimes confuses stupidity with treason. If you are a Republican you've got to paint a picture of large and sinister forces trying to take over your party in the name of something terribly un-American. Then you studiously refrain from naming the sinister forces, lest you alienate a couple of voters. If the whole business suggests to you a tribal dance, you will be quite right about it. Cultural anthropoligy, my boy, explains a lot.

"The politicians have another tribal ritual, which is to do obeisance every day on both the hour and the half hour to something that is called the 'image.' If your 'image' is poor, you don't try to repair it by doing anything fundamental about your basic character. In school you may have studied Shakespeare and read about Polonius, who said 'To thine own self be true.' But Polonius was a square. The new Polonius says, 'Polish your image.' It's not what's in your heart or behind your eyes that counts; it's what's in the mirror. You 'project' an image in the mirror by reading the Gallup Poll as it relates to your district. If the poll calls for a shift on your Vietnam position, you shift. Your 'image' will be taken as sincere, no matter what is in your subconscious.

"In America it's an easy thing to be a pundit. You simply master the language of the moment and chatter about 'escalation' and the 'image.' The more superficial you are, the more profound will be your reputation. It's the switcheroo, my boy, that explains everything. Next year you'll have to get another vocabulary, but you have plenty of time for that."

Unsightly Keloids Remain Very Difficult to Remove

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When a scar gets carried away with its own importance you have a keloid. This is a hard, raised scar that is smooth except for its clawlike edges.

Keloids are primarily a cosmetic problem but, if they occur at the collar line or any other location where they are rubbed by your clothing, they may be a constant source of irritation. They usually follow a burn, chronic infection, operation or vaccination. They may run in families. A large number of keloids were seen in the survivors of the atomic explosions in Japan. Keloids are not malignant and they do not tend to become cancerous.

Many a surgeon has removed an unsightly keloid only to have it recur after the wound heals. When anyone who has a keloid must be operated on the surgeon takes certain precautions, not always successful, to try to prevent another keloid forming in the new scar.

Many treatments have been tried to remove or reduce keloids, but none are completely successful. Exposure to X-rays, injecting the keloid with one of the corticosteroids, heavy pressure with a freezing agent such as dry ice, injection with a mixture of lidocaine (a local anesthetic) and dexamethasone, all have produced good results in some patients.

More recently, two new compounds, triethylenethiophosphormide and triamcinolone acetomide have been found to give good results both on old keloids and in the prevention of new ones. For those who have the patience to stay with it for 10 to 12 months, deep heat produced by ultrasonic waves has also reduced keoids nearly to the vanishing point.

Comparative studies to determine which of the methods mentioned is best have not yet been made but at least there has been some progress in getting rid of these unsightly scars.

Q—For two years I have been getting sores on my scalp and face that do not come to a head. Frequent shampoos help but do not cure this condition. What causes it and what will cure it?

A—You probably have acne necrotia. This disease is in no way related to the acne of adolescents. The cause is unknown but it is most often seen in middle-aged men. It is hard to cure but it can be helped by rubbing white ammoniated mercury ointment (10 per cent) in your scalp every second or third night. This should be washed out thoroughly in the morning. If you are overweight you should reduce and regardless of your weight you should cut out fatty foods and chocolates. If these measures do not help you, you should see a skin specialist.

"This Should Give You a Chance to Improve Your Image, Hubert!"

Washington News

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— The Democratic National Committee has fallen to its lowest estate in many years.

The human traffic in and around the committee's offices has declined so sharply in recent months that, if carpets could grow like grass, the worn spots would now be thick enough for moving.

Morale at the committee had plummeted long before the recently publicized economy drive indicated that some 35 employes are due to be lopped off the payroll by Feb. 1.

The committee staff has lost its patronage function, its important registration function, much of its basic organizing function.

Just about its only useful work today is its preparation and distribution of recorded and taped materials for the use of Democratic candidates for Congress particularly the 71 freshmen President Johnson would like to have hang onto their seats next November.

THE PRESIDENT HAS dealt with the committee largely by ignoring it, by treating it as kind of a harmless political service station.

It is axiomatic that when a party has its man in the White House, major political decisions emanate from there. But some interested Democrats are wondering whether Johnson is perhaps allowing the national committee to deteriorate too seriously.

In the view of some, it could become a positive handicap if this happens. Man in the White House or not, the major U. S. parties need the organizational focus they get from a strong central staff. As the Democratic body stands today, it is perhaps more of a drag than a help to state organizations across the country.

THE PRESIDENT'S MASSIVE VICTORY in 1964, backed up by similar large triumphs in the congressional races, tended to cloak growing organizational weakness among Democrats in many places. Troubles are now chronic in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, California, to name only a few states.

It is common these days to belittle the value of the organizer in today's election process. But many politicians still insist organization is the crucial difference in close races. There could be many such races in 1966 if the Viet Nam war becomes a campaign factor.

The Democratic committee just is not geared for organizing effort. The sharp curtailment in personnel, reportedly ordered by the President to help shave a $1.7 million party deficit, only deepens the problem. The expected ballooning of the committee staff in mid-year for the fall campaign will come too late.

SYMPTOMATIC OF THE PRESIDENT'S evident scorn for committee operations is his putting off the matter of Committee Chariman John M. Bailey. The chairman is under rising pressure from both private and political sources in his home state of Connecticut to get back there.

Friends say he looks and acts dispirited. They indicate he would probably try to resign if the President would so much as see him.

But Johnson evidently is not eager to undertake the ticklish problem of finding a suitable successor. He works through his personal agent at the committee, Clifton Carter, now acting treasurer, and lets it go at that.

The President's real political advisers, of course, are Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien and White House appointments secretary Marvin Watson. O'Brien is top strategist, and his contacts with the White House are probably more numerous than those of any administration officers except Secretaries Rusk and McNamara of State and Defense.

Reliable as are O'Brien and Watson, the feeling nevertheless exists among some Democrats that national party effort may yet suffer if the national committee slides much farther downhill.

Role of TWU Membership Is Called Key Issue in N.Y.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The whole country has been given a dramatic example of how an autocracy in control of 33,000 workers can paralyze the transportation system of the second-largest city in the world. The issue is not personal—it isn't just an eccentric or demagogic personality like that of Michael Quill which deserves criticism, but the subservient attitude of the members of his labor union who are ordered to go on strike and fail to take into account the possible consequences of their action. This is the problem that the United States is plagued with today as strike after strike is called arbitrarily causes the loss of many millions of dollars a day to innocent bystanders.

Congress has been negligent in dealing with union autocracies as well as union monopolies. Many an industry has its costs fixed by extremists like Mr. Quill. There is no mechanism which insures fairness or a conciliatory process which takes into account all the equities in a dispute.

What is called "collective bargaining" is a farce. It is "collective" only in the sense that the united power of the workers is utilized to blackjack employers into submission. The "bargaining" often fails to recognize that there are limits to the payments which can be made by management. Again and again an ultimatum is issued by a labor-union leader, and the employer finds himself comparing the huge cost of a strike with the expense of granting the wage demands. Many a manager has taken the risk of agreeing to high wage scales that he really can't afford, only to find himself later forced out of business.

The annual cost of strikes reaches fantastic figures, especcially when public facilities are involved that cause damage to citizens in every walk of life. That the costs of the wage increases themselves which are applied to large and small companies alike in many industries are even greater. They lead to the abolition of the marginal competitors. Mergers are frequently the result of the ill effects of excessive demands made by labor unions. Individual companies grow larger as the free-enterprise system is eroded.

Congress in recent years has ignored the destructive influence of the extremists in labor-union leadership. The labor unions themselves have gone deeply into politics and have collected millions of dollars to help elect members of Congress — primarily the candidates of the Democratic party. This is a form of bribery that has gone unrebuked in America, though sooner or later the corrupt influence of campaign contributions must inevitably be recognized as against the public interest.

Congress has the power to regulate labor-management relations. During the last 18 years virtually no important amendments to existing laws have been enacted to cut down the abuses in the conduct of labor relations. Indeed, the National Labor Relations Board, which is supposed to be a quasi-judicial body, has become an instrument of politics. Its one-sided rulings have begun to astonish lawyers who have watched the week-by-week decisions that have tolerated the unions' misuse of the collective-bargaining power.

Today the word "inflation" is supposed to describe a dangerous trend—dangerous to the pocketbooks of the citizens and the future of the national economy. But the inflationary crisis, while partly the result of the unsound financial operations of the Federal government, is mostly due to the forcing up of wage costs and prices because of strikes and threats of strikes by labor unions.

What may Congress do? It can limit the right of labor-union leaders to call a strike unless the issues have been made clear to all concerned, and until, in cases of deadlock, an opportunity has been given for disinterested tribunals or boards to evaluate the arguments and tell the union members the true situation so they will not be misled by irresponsible leaders.

Congress clai s the right to regulate interstate commerce, certainly labor unions today are engaged in an interstate process. Almost all products or services are an integral part of a national system of interstate commerce and communication. Congress thus has full responsibility for preventing costly strikes.

Novelist Wells

The British historian, H. G. Wells, achieved his first fame with a series of science-fiction novels that were intended to express his social theories, but which people enjoyed as romances instead.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Overnight, Jake became a bore. He was still the sweet and thoughtful person he had been for 50-odd years. But he was also vacant. Empty. He said words like parrot on a perch. He also turned his smile on and off as though he were afraid to use it.

His days had been spent in the garment center. He knew Seventh Avenue and Broadway and the pinochle players and the buttonhole makers and the push-carts of dresses and furs and he even knew the heartache of going broke. Jake was in woolens. He was small and smart and tenacious. Jake knew the woolen market and it beat him once or twice, but, when his two boys and one girl were in their teens, Jake attained stature in the business.

He could borrow in five figures —maybe six—by stopping in at the bank and asking for a piece of paper to sign. He seldom borrowed. Nor was he above helping a friend who needed a stake, especially if it was money which wasn't—as he said—"going down the ashcan."

His loves were God and Edith and the children. In his heart, they were all in a photo finish. Edith was stout and kept a good house. She walked a pace behind him on the street, and thought a pace behind. To Edith, Jake was "God's blessing come to life." If Jake was ever elected President of the United States, Edith would call her girlfriend Grace and say: "So what's new?"

Jake knew the things he had to know. He had attended old Townsend Harris High for a year, but he had to drop out to push a cart, wrap packages and bring a few dollars home. In time, his oldest boy Joe became a doctor. The girl, Stella, became a teacher. The young boy, Bernard, was nothing. A dreamer.

Bernie drove his father crazy. The kid would do as he was told. He would study. Or polish silverware. Or go to the store for his mother. Or sneak up behind her and kiss her on the back of the neck when she was cooking. His school marks were good, but he didn't know what he wanted from life. And what boy gets "F" in Physical Ed?

Jake's refuge was to pay no attention to the young boy. He centered all his attention, his praise, his smiles, on the other two. A business friend would ask "How's Bernie?" and Jake would shake his head and mutter: "Yeah. How's Bernie?"

Then, as I say, overnight Jake became a bore. He would start to say something pleasant and the words ended in mid-sentence. In a pinochle game, he bid 340, made 310 in tricks, and argued that he had bid 310. He played golf—a game Jake loved—like an automaton who cannot count. Some people got a creepy feeling that Jake didn't know what he was doing.

Mornings, he often remained away from the office. Jake's sales chief had figures to prove that the business was growing beyond their dreams, but Jake listened and put on the machanical smile.

Suddenly, he began to cultivate Bernard. It was as though, in his lassitude, he had discovered a son. He took Bernie to first nights on Broadway and to the avant-garde type of movies the boy enjoyed. In the nice weather, he even played tennis with Bernie although Jake had neither the legs nor the heart for the game.

Jake lost friends. He had no new ones. One by one, they gave up. Some did it silently, finding excuses on the phone for not making a date. Others exploded in anger and walked off. Joe, who was married and had a good practice in Jersey, had a serious talk with his father and advised a medical examination. "When I need a doctor," Jake said, "I will go to see one of my choosing, not one that I once had to wipe his nose."

One evening at the dining room table, Bernie said something about the wonders of California and the father beamed and said: "Then you and I are going together." Edith was shocked. She sipped her soup and said nothing. Jake wasn't kidding. He bought the plane tickets and took Bernie off to Los Angeles.

They not only did the town—rented a car and saw the motion picture studios and the beautiful homes of Beverly Hills—but they also spent two days at Disneyland, two more on the Monterey Peninsula, dined at the Top 'O the Mark in San Francisco, played golf at a course near Burlingame, and came home.

Bernie was ecstatic. "Honest Ma, he said. "It was terrific. The greatest." In the morning, Jake collapsed while dressing. He just fell down and didn't get up. At the hospital, a series of tests were made. There was nothing wrong with Jake except exhaustion. An old doctor finally wrung the truth from Jake.

Months before, he had secretly taken Bernie to a specialist. Deep in the recesses of the boy's brain, a slow-growing tumor had been found. There was no hope for Bernie, 20 years of age. Jake kept the secret. He didn't even tell the boy.

There has been some talk that America is facing a "shortage" of beef several years from now. It is silly to use a term such as "shortage" because no one has ever determined what a "normal" supply of beef is.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

Little by little our residents and business people for one reason or another are leaving Kingston. Will the census of Kingston ever reach 30,000 or will it go down. The exodus of Broadway East has started a trend of not only leaving the city, but the county and the state. Taxpayers are customers of the city.

In the Thursday evening, Dec. 30, 1965 Freeman I see a large advertisement of Seasons Greetings from Al and Geraldine Bailey, or known for some 26 years as the popular Wimpy's bar and grill at 92 Broadway. They are going in the motel business in Florida, some 20 miles north of Tampa, Fla., Route 5, Box 835. It is called the Detroit Resort Hotel. They have been my neighbors for many years and it will seem dark and dreary when they put out their lights for the last time on Broadway.

Mrs. Zelickman, or Cappy's Market, next to them, corner Meadow and Broadway, closed her door some weeks ago. The Liberty Printer on the corner of West Union and Broadway is also moving out of Kingston. Mr. Falk has found a location in the up and coming Port Ewen, where another business recently moved from Broadway East. The other place, employed a number of people and were in the Andy Furniture building on lower Broadway, formerly Stock and Cordts. They built a large place in Port Ewen.

I can understand how this Broadway East Project is important for some reason or other for progress, but how will they capture business concerns, tenants and store keepers to come back. I would say it is impossible. These were all old-timers who would have stayed, and kept that part of Broadway interesting and serving the public. Only time will tell.

It was interesting to see Port Ewen on the main stem with their attractive Christmas decorations in 1965. The town has new lights also, and private dwellings added their decorations. Strange as it may also seem, many who ventured into Port Ewen stayed, or moved into other locations there. Port Ewen has its Hudson River view. I would say it is high above the water in comparison with other places. The floods or other weather conditions do not bother it much. Today the Hudson supplies the water, so there is plenty of it, and it is much softer water than before, so it seems. There is a friendliness about the village, and always has been, also its store-keepers. It has a library, a park, doctors and dentists, and drug stores and good markets, and all within walking distance of the main stem. There are all sorts of services, and a bank on a corner, and a new post office. Much of this has happened in the last few years. Now one wonders, what will the new bridge do, and just where it will go. I do hope none of the old-timers will have to be moved. The Port Ewen School is even magnificient, I would say and beautifully run by Principal Graves and his staff.

The Port Ewen I remember as a child was nice also. We had our doctors and Mr. Card was our druggist. We had our candy store, Mr. Crooks, and Mr. Lampham and other friendly merchants. Mr. Rodman was the postmaster. Mrs. Rodman had a hourse and buggy. She could taxi folks from the Skillyput, up the hill. Mr. Davis was the principal of the school in my time, and Miss Bush was one of the teachers. There was swimming in the Hudson, sleighriding down Main Street near my grandparent's house, and ice-skating in the winter. Physical fitness were unknown words to us, and also juvenile delinquency.

Hints From Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

Here's a tip for tight budgets, that suddenly have maternity clothes added:

All one has to do is rip open the front seam of slacks or Bermuda shorts, and insert a V-shaped panel (with drawstrings threaded across the top of the inserted panel.)

Presto—maternity slacks at no extra cost; and the best part of it is that after the baby arrives, the panel may be removed and the garment sewn up on its original seam again.

The most unusual part of this is that the idea was my husband's!

Mrs. R. A. Guth

Dear Mrs. Guth:

Before I had my last baby, I split the seams on all my skirts that had a seam in the middle of the front, and used pieces of colored T-shirts for the insert. (The hem serves as a casing for the drawstring). The jersey-type material stretched beautifully, and is so soft. This is especially good for black or navy skirts.

Along about the last few months, I discovered that if I made my blouses long enough, they would cover the insert nicely.

Another little hint for those in their first month of pregnancy:

Buy a package of big safety pins.

You can unbutton the band on any skirt, open the zipper a bit, and use these wonderful gadgets to put through the buttonhole on the skirt band, and pin it to the side with the button. As each week or so passes, just add another safety pin!

On some skirts you can use as many as four pins, one interlocked through the other.

Dear Heloise:

I am the mother of small children.

I wished to decorate their bedrooms, but did not want to go to the expense of buying wallpaper.

I bought a coloring book containing cute nursery pictures. I cut out the pictures I liked, put a sheet of heavy carbon paper behind each picture, and traced the complete image on the wall.

I purchased several colored, washable-type marking pens, and painted the pictures to blend with my color scheme.

This works best if the walls are painted with washable paint, because when it comes time to redecorate, the pictures will wash almost completely off, so that they will not show through the new paint.

The wall in my one-year-old daughter's room is filled with nursery rhymes and circus animals, which she enjoys and is rapidly learning to identify.

I have received many compliments on my decorating idea.

Sealed Bottle Floats 21 Months, 3,000 Miles

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A sealed bottle dropped into the Atlantic Ocean by an American soldier floated 21 months and 3,000 miles before it was found by a Frenchman.

In the bottle was a note offering a $5 reward to the finder and containing the address of the soldier, William J. Powers of suburban Kenmore.

The Frenchman, Gilbert Camon of Biscarrosse, France, has claimed the reward.

Powers said he dropped the bottle into the water on March 2, 1964, from a ship 800 miles out of the New York harbor. He was then an Army officer returning from a two-year tour of duty in Germany.

Fowers received a letter from Camon last month saying he had found the bottle.

Powers estimated the bottle and message weathered a sea journey of at least 3,000 miles before being washed up on a sheltered beach at Biscarrosse.

Camon will be sent the $5.

Cites New Law Controling Drugs By Prescription

District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca has called attention to a new law effective January 1, dealing with the control of stimulant and depressant drugs known as barbiturates and emphetamine and commonly referred to as "goof balls" and "pep pills."

The main interest of the law is to control illicit traffic in these drugs. It is now necessary to have a written prescription from a physician for drugs covered by this new law.

May Be Refilled

If so designated by a doctor, those prescriptions may then be refilled for a period of six months from date of issue or five refills. The pharmacist will not be permitted to obtain refill authorization by way of telephone, a written prescription must be presented.

Use of these drugs when used under a doctor's instructions is safe and proper. The new law is aimed at the illegal use of these drugs by the criminal element. It is to be noted that not all drugs are covered by the law, and should any question arise concerning the issue of certain drugs, the district attorney stated, a person should consult a physician or pharmacist.

The increasing use of barbiturates has become a leading cause of death by poisoning. Just how many of these deaths are accidental and how many are suicidal is hard to determine. When a person takes an unusual dose of barbituates, he goes into a fuzzy state and not realizing how many pills they have already taken, may take another which could be the last.

Better known bartiturates depress the nervous system. The so called "pep pills" act as a stimulant and an overdose can cause hallucintions.

Stiff Penalties

The law provides stiff penalties for mishandling the drugs. Illegal possession can be punishable with a jail sentence of up to a year and a fine of as much as $500. Selling the drugs to minors is punishble with a minimum sentence of five years in jail.

Through the district attorney's office and other law enforcement offices, a campaign against the illegal sale and use of durgs has been underway for several months. There have been several convictions and several cases charging illegal possession or use of drugs are pending in the Ulster county cour .

New Film Joins Talents of Loren, Brando, Chaplain

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It should be an interesting experience," said Marlon Brando, an expression of doubt appearing on his classic features.

The actor was speaking of his next film venture, "The Countess from Hong Kong." It promises to be one of the most noteworthy of recent movies, inasmuch as he will costar with Sophia Loren and both will be directed by Charlie Chaplin.

Odd Combination

The odd combination of talents has caused wonderment in the film world, and the feeling is shared by Brando.

Has the script been written?

"Well, yes," said Brando hesitantly. "That is, he sent me one. But then he sent a message later telling me to disregard the previous script as he was writing an entirely new one."

Why is Brando doing the film?

"Because Chaplin asked me," he explained. "When a man of his stature in the industry writes a script for you, you can think of me for a comedy. I have think of me for a comedy. I haven't the faintest idea. But he said I was the only one who could play it."

Brando added with a grin: "I and Sean Connery, I guess. I understand Chaplain also had Connery on the hook, in case I didn't come through."

Brando Agent Operated

The deal for "The Countess from Hong Kong" resulted from the labors of Jay Kanter, longtime Brando agent and friend. Now a top executive of MCA, parent of Universal Pictures, Kanter recently assumed control of the company's European filming. He sounded out Chaplin who disclosed he had been writing a new comedy for two years.

Kanter arranged a summit meeting between Brando and Chaplin in London.

It was the first time Brando had met the comedy master, and they apparently got along well. Brando has met his costar, Miss Loren, only briefly at a long-ago Hollywood event.

The actor seemed a bit mystified by the whole project. I asked if he could briefly summarize the plot.

"No," he replied.

Plays an American

"I play an American, a man from an aristocratic family, well-dressed but wan, tired — not jaded, but archly bemused by the world at large. He is married and is trying for an important government post, an ambassadorship. No, maybe it's secretary of state.

"The appointment comes through, but he gets himself involved with a woman, a white Russian. She stows away in his cabin on an ocean liner, and he spends most of the time trying to keep her hidden."

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN

LBJ's Peace Tactics Provide Priceless Insight in Methods

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because he concentrated on home affairs there has been little chance — until now — to see how President Johnson would operate in the foreign field where his experience has been far less.

But his tactics in the past 10 days in trying to get the North Vietnamese Communists to discuss peace have provided a priceless, and enduring insight into his methods with both friends and enemies abroad.

Cite Persistence

He'll do what he does at home. While an Air Force uses saturation bombing, Johnson tries to saturate people with persuasion and pressure. It was this, and his persistence, which made him this century's best Senate leader.

Now, to get the Communists talking, he has saturated the world with publicity on his efforts and foreign capitals with his emissaries.

In the Senate his policy was simple and realistic: Get all you can; if you can't get it all, get as much as you can, even if it means compromising, for something is better than nothing.

Johnson hasn't compromised in foreign affairs yet if only because so far he hasn't had to. There may be some situations in which he can't — Viet Nam, perhaps — but that's to be seen.

Classic Example

The classic example of Johnson as the persuasive technician was in the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1957, the first in this century. He compromised to soften Southern resistance which had stopped such legislation in the past.

This angered some Negroes whose emotions made them overlook this central point:

Southern resistance would never be the same again, the civil rights forces now had their foot in the door, and the next steps would be easier and stronger. And they are.

Again the astonishing record of Congress in 1965 on major legislation — like medical care for the aged and federal aid to education, long regarded as impossible — was the product of Johnson's ceaseless maneuvering, made easier, of course, by the vast Democratic majorities.

Would Be the Same

Once Johnson determined to make this effort for peace talks, his use of emissaries to foreign capitals would probably have followed exactly the same course if there had been no publicity and all was done in secret.

Th publicity put extra pressure on the Reds while serving some other useful purposes for Johnson.

If the Communists ignore his efforts, they risk looking like fanatics and losing some or much of the sympathy they have here and elsewhere.

While the emissaries put pressure on the leaders they visited to do what they could to bring about discussions with the Reds, the publicity in general was an obvious effort to persuade the world of American good intentions.

Less Complaint

And, because of the publicity, if Johnson's efforts fail, there can be less complaint here or abroad that he is war-minded or unyielding.

And all the news of Johnson's efforts should help him in Congress where he is going to have to ask lots more money to carry on the war.

A Communist rejection will deprive those in Congress who oppose the war or an increase in war spending of much of any argument that, before he seeks more funds, he should do more to seek peace.

Figured from any angle, Johnson is running true to a form developed long ago.

Rocky Appears To Downgrade Reapport Issue

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller appeared to downgrade reapportionment, a matter of prime concern to legislators, in his annual message today.

In a single, brief reference to the issue, the Republican governor urged the lawmakers to act swiftly "on a fair and valid plan" for allocating seats in the Legislature.

With that done, the governor said, "we may turn our attention to dealing with the challenges before us."

To many legislators, a reapportionment plan that preserves their political careers is one of the biggest challenges of this session.

Broome Man Serious After Tank Blows

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 43-year-old construction foreman was in serious condition today after a bottled gas tank explosion damaged a partly finished building.

Joseph J. Acquisto of Conklin was admitted Tuesday to Binghamton Hospital with burns suffered in the explosion at the building, owned by the American Civic Association.

There was no estimate of the loss in the downtown building, which was scheduled for completion April 1. The tank, used in a heater, exploded in the basement.

Can Wear Curlers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Sleepy eyed co-eds will be able to dash to morning classes in curlers next month and nobody will notice. They'll be dashing to their home TV sets.

The State University said Tuesday it would offer college-level courses for credit on its educational television stations in Buffalo and Schenectady.

A course in Latin American history will be broadcast from the State University of Buffalo beginning Feb. 8 at 8 a.m.

On Feb. 7, a course in astronomy will begin from the State University unit at Albany, also at 8 a.m.

Dr. Robert C. Rowe, director of educational communications at the State University at Albany, is coordinator of the program, launched under the university's $665,000 educational television plan.

Hits Road Slaughter

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Gov. John H. Reed has proposed a four-point legislative program to stop what he called "the senseless slaughter on our highways."

He said he would ask the special Maine legislative session convening Jan. 17 to: Approve the addition of 20 troopers to the 259-man state police force; enact a new driver license control system; appropriate $14,700 for continuation of the state's driver improvement program.

Saving on Bleach

In today's advertisement for Food Fair the correct price for Clorox in gallons should be 39 cents, a saving of 20 cents.

Moore Is Named 13th Time as Columbia Leader

Germantown Supervisor Jay C. Moore has been reelected chairman of the Columbia County Board of Superivsors for the 13th consecutive time.

Moore was re-elected at the annual organization meeting. Also re-appointed was Carlyle Rockefeller as clerk of the board. Moore told the supervisors after his re-election as chairman that they had come to "do what you think is right for your towns, but you must decide where the town leaves off and the county begins."

Car Hits Deer

Cleon Jump, 50, of Port Ewen, apparently escaped injury at 11:20 p. m. Tuesday when his car hit a deer on Route 28 about 1.8 miles west of Route 209, Town of Ulster, according to Trooper Craig Bremer of the Kingston substation. Trooper F. C. Cooper reported Jump was driving east on the highway when the deer entered the highway from the south shoulder and was hit by the car.

$23,000 Budget Meeting Slated

A budget of some $23,000 will be presented this month at the annual congregational meeting of Atonement Lutheran Church, Market Street, Saugerties. The budget includes a world-wide quota of $6,168 and Philadelphia Seminary Appeal quota of $3,225, half of a two-year quota of $6,500 to aid in relocating and rebuilding the 100 year old Philadelphia Seminary plant. The budget discussion and meeting has been set for Sunday, Jan. 16 at 8 p. m. in the basement of the church.

The Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor, has also announced the following calendar of services and meetings at the church:

Regular Sunday services at 8 a. m. and 11 a. m. with Sunday school at 9:15 a. m. Nursery care is provided during the 11 a m worship

Confirmation classes meet each Wednesday at 1:50 p. m. Scout Troop No. 32 holds Wednesday meetings at 7 p. m. at the parish house, and Senior Choir rehearsal is scheduled at 8 p. m. the same night. Junior Choir rehearsal is held each Thursday at 6:45 p. m.

The regular January meeting of the Church Council is set for Tuesday, Jan. 11 at 7:30 p. m. The group will consider nomination of council members to be voted on at the annual meeting, and hear the report of th Stewardship Committee on committments for 1966 needs.

Lutheran Church Women meet Thursday, Jan. 13 at 8 p. m. with Mrs. Frederick Schmersahl, president, in charge. All women of the congregation are invited to attend.

January marks the beginning of regular Junior Choir appearances, under the direction of Mrs. L. Mellander, on the second and fourth Sundays of the month at 11 a. m. services. Rehearsals for the group are held each Thursday at 6:45 p. m at the church. Pupils in grades 3 to 7 are welcome. Confirmation Choir (pupils in Junior and Senior Confirmation classes) will sing every third Sunday of the month at 8 a. m. services, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Cowen.

Church Calendar Lists Activities

First Congregational Church of Saugerties has released the following calendar of services and events:

Sermon topic for Sunday, Jan. 9 will be To Find or Not to Find —That Is the Question. Service is at 11 a. m. with church school classes for all age groups at 10 a. m.

Youth choir meets Tuesday at 7 p. m. with all young people interested in singing invited to attend.

The church plans to set a date within the next month to accept new members into the congregation. Already announced is the First Congregational annual meeting, scheduled Thursday, Jan. 27 in the church school rooms.

The financial secretary has announced that a new type of envelope will be used in the future for offerings. The envelope features a three-pocket arrangement which will greatly assist in the keeping of church records. Sets of envelopes are available from the financial secretary or from the minister.

Parents desiring baptism for children are asked to contact the minister at any time.

Other meetings announced include one for the men of the church tonight at 7 o'clock in the parsonage to carry on reconstruction work, and a meeting of the Women's Fellowship Monday, Jan. 10, at the home of Mrs. Helen Steiger. All members are urged to attend.

Announcement has also been made of the marriage of Mrs. Margaret Galio and Walter H. Smith on Jan. 1 in the home of the minister. Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Wood served as witnesses at the ceremony, and a gift has been given to the church in honor of this event.

SHS Class Reunion For 1956 Graduates

Definite plans have now been formulated for a gala 10-year reunion of the Saugerties High School graduating class of 1956. The celebration will be held in the form of a formal dinner dance July 8 at the Flamingo.

Questionnaires have been mailed to all known members of the class, and those who failed to receive a questionnaire or have further questions may contact Mary Fellows for information. Mrs. Fellows has requested that all questionnaires be returned promptly so that the committee in charge can begin to make detailed arrangements for the fete.

Rosary Society Meets

St. Mary's of the Snow Rosary Society will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Jan. 6 at 8 p. m. in St. Mary's School.

Sister Therese Marian, first grade teacher, will address members of the Head Start program, geared to begin the educational cycle early for pre-school age children.

All women of the parish are invited to attend.

Children Help Fund

Announcement has been made that children of Atonement Lutheran Sunday School contributed gifts in the amount of $100 for Lutheran World Relief through Advent church banks and dime savers. These funds will be put to work in a broad program of aid in 17 countries where a critical need exists.

Thin Ice Warning For Local Creeks

Village recreation officials are seriously concerned with the dangers inherent in local children skating on the thin ice of both the Sawkill and Esopus Creeks. Currently, they point out, the formation of ice on the two creeks is not up to expectations for the season. Normally, residents can expect anwhere from four to seven inches of ice in early January but, in 1966, this is not the case.

Recreation officials here who have looked the local ice skating scene over carefully, point out that there is no more than one-half inch of ice on the creeks at the present time, and they warn youngsters to beware of skating until the weather hits more frigid temperatures. A spokesman for the group reported that, although warning signs have been put up regarding the dangerous conditions, children have been seen skating already on the Sawkill and Esopus. He urged all parents to keep their children off the ice until further notice.

With skating on the creeks impossible, recreation officials, the Youth Council and the Superintendent of Public Works are exerting every effort to put the Main Street skating rink into operation. A recent leak in the rink which has made it unfit for skating will be repaired by the Department of Public Works; new lights and benches will be installed by the Commissioner of Parks, and recreation officials will announce when the rink is ready for figure eight experts an dother gliders.

Search Is Made For Ulster Girl

Missing from her home since Wednesday, Dec. 29, Linda Gill, 15, Town of Ulster, was the object of a search today.

Kingston State Police requested public assistance in locating the girl described in reports as white, five feet two inches tall, weighing 105 pounds. She has brown hair and brown eyes.

Tropers said the girl may be in possession of a 1962 sedan, color gray, and bearing a New York registration UL 71-12. Anyone having any information as to the whereabouts of the girl or the car, is asked to telephone immediately to Kingston State Police or Kingston City Police.

Strike Stranded May Be Eligible For Jobless Pay

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the 3.5 million persons employed in the city and unable to get to work because of the transit strike are eligible for unemployment benefits — but with several "ifs."

The benefits, ranging from $10 to $55 a week, depend on:

—The length of the strike. Claimants must undergo a one-week waiting period before benefits can be paid. If the strike is settled this week, only those who have undergone a previous waiting period will be eligible.

—Time worked and money earned during the layoff.

The law prohibits payment of benefits to those who work more than three days a week or earn more than $55 a week during their layoff from their regular jobs.

A spokesman for the New York State Labor Department said: "If they are getting paid for their time off, well, we are not going to pay them too. We won't consider them unemployed."

15 Persons Fined During Viet Protest

MEDIA, Pa., (AP) — Fifteen persons have been fined on charges stemming from their picketing of the Vertol helicopter plant in Morton, in protest against American involvement in the Viet Nam war.

Justice of the Peace James Henry imposed the fines Tuesday night in a five-hour hearing in the Springfield Township municipal bulding.

Authortes said the 15 either paid the fines or posted bond, and none were jailed.

One demonstrator, Edward Gottlieb of New York City, was acquitted of charges of congregating and loitering. Gottlieb is a New York school principal who once staged a hunger strike to urge increased racial integration of the city's schools.

Crushed by Logs

POTTERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)— George Wallace, 53, was crushed to death Tuesday by logs that rolled off a lumber truck in this Adirondack Mountain community.

Wallace, a Pottersville resident and the father of three, was at work in a lumber yard when the accident occurred.

IT'S BETTER with SILLER BRAND BUTTER

4 Die in Blaze

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Fire today destroyed a nearby Waterford Township house in which five children were sleeping.

Four of them were killed. The fifth was reported in fair condition.

Waterford Township police identified the victims as 8-year-old Donald Brown and his three sisters: Kathy 15; Nancy, 12; and Julia, 7. Their brother, Larry, 14, escaped the flames and was hospitalized.

Officers said their mother, Barbara, was at work at the time and the children were alone.

Palenville Woman, Son Are Hurt

While driving her car west on Route 32A, Town of Saugerties, at 11 a. m. Tuesday, Mrs. Delia Cross, 25, Palenville, lost control and the vehicle went off the highway and hit the concrete steps of a porch.

State Police Sergeant Joseph Cross of Leeds said Mrs. Cross was driving west on the highway when she lost control and the car veered off the north shoulder and hit the porch steps of a house.

The woman was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital and treated for lacerations of the lips and nose. Her son, Warren, 4, was treated for lacerations of the lips.

Public Invited To Gen. Taylor's Talk in Dutchess

The wide and personal interest which the war in Viet Nam is generating has caused the IBM Club board of directors to invite the public to Gen. Maxwell Taylor's talk on this Southeast Asia country scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 15, at the IBM Country Club.

"While we have previously limited the sale of tickets to employes because of space limitation," William Butsko, IBM Club president said today, "we have reevaluted the interest which Gen. Taylor's talk may have to the community and decided to invite the public to share this program with us. In order to accommodate as many as possible we will open our field house which has the capacity to seat 1,500 persons."

Gen. Taylor's talk is set for 8 p. m. The former superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point, the general is presently serving as special consultant to President Johnson. A former ambassador to South Viet Nam, he keeps the President advised on diplomatic military, stategic and economic problems. A 4-star general, Gen. Taylor has held the position of Chief of Staff of the Army and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Boice Elected Fire Board Head

Henry E. Boice, of 24 Presidents Place, was elected president of Kingston's Board of Fire Commissioners at its organizational meeting Tuesday night.

He succeeds C. John Bechtold of 337 Foxhall Avenue.

Reappointed as department doctors were Drs. John A. Cooke Jr., and Jack Lehner, and renamed as department chaplains were the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church and the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church.

The board welcomed as a new commissioner, Morton M. Finch, of 154 TenBroeck Avenue, who was recently named by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan.

Boice was named a commissioner in July, 1963 by Mayor John J. Schwenk to succeed the late John N. Worf, of 97 Abeel Street.

A native of Kingston, he is employed by IBM. He is a member of Rapid Hose Company No. 1 and St. Peter's Church. He had served two and a half years with the U. S. Navy in the European and Pacific theatres during World War 2.

Quill Has Very Restful Night

NEW YORK (AP) — Transit union leader Michael J. Quill was reported "more like himself" today at Bellevue Hospital, where he is resting after collapsing in jail Tuesday.

Quill spent "a very restful night and seems to be doing very well," said Dr. Randolph A. Wyman, chief spokesman for the hospital.

"He looks improved, his color is back and he's more like himself," Dr. Wyman said.

Quill, 60, president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, was jailed for civil contempt for not ending his union's strike of subway and bus workers.

He was stricken about two hours after he entered the jail.

Dr. Wyman said today that heart specialists were still studying tests to determine whether Quill, who has a history of heart trouble, had suffered a heart attack.

Solons Sign Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two elder statesmen are signing up for medicare—Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and Gov. J. Millard Tawes of Maryland.

Anderson, 70, a sponsor of the legislation, signed up Tuesday in Albuquerque.

Tawes, the nation's oldest governor who turns 72 in April, was inducted to join when Social Security officials held a campaign to get people to sign up for the medical benefits. His name turned up during a payroll check of state employes.

See Greene Out Of Contention For A-Plant Site

A Hunter Mountain tract in Greene County that hit the news last November as a possible site for the construction of a $300 million U.S. Atomic Accelerator Laboratory was probably out of the running today. So was the Galeville Airport site once suggested by Supervisor George Majestic (D) Gardiner as home base for the atom-smasher, a 200-billion electron-volt accelerator, requiring a work force of 2,000 persons.

The Greene County site was one of 85 which had been pared from hundreds across the country making original applications to the Atomic Energy Commission, as states and communities everywhere waged promotional efforts to win the facility and bring a big building program and many highly paid specialists into their area.

Hunter Mountain Development Corporation, directed by Isidore a nd Orville Slutsky, made the original application, and Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. offered to provide the required transmission lines to the Hunter site when it was learned that lack of normal transmission facilities there might rule out the Greene County location. The plan also had the complete backing of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, who pledged to devote maximum effort to obtain the atom-smasher site for the 28th District.

All local and state efforts, however, would seem to have been in vain. According to the Associated Press, government sources in Washington said today that New York State may be out of the running entirely in the scramble by 43 states to provide the site for the atom-smasher.

Informed sources said Tuesday the site-selection committee of the National Academy of Science had trimmed the list to sites in Illinois, Wisconsin, California, Colorado and Michigan.

The committee was reported ready to turn over its selections to the Atomic Energy Commission, whose inspection teams visited 85 communities in an attempt to make a choice.

The AEC presumably will make its selection from the Academy's list.

Queens Man Killed

NEW YORK (AP) — A Queens man was killed at 1:15 a.m. today when the car he was driving jumped the center mall on the Long Island Expressway and collided with a car coming in the opposite direction, police said.

Killed was Harold Delaroche, 59, who lived at 5051 39th st., Long Island City.

Award $2,790,848 Pact

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Walter S. Johnson Building Co. Inc. of Niagara Falls has been awarded a $2,790,848 contract for construction of a service building and a heating plant at the State University College at Fredonia. The award was announced today by the State University Construction Fund.

Housewife Killed

LIMA N.Y. (AP)—A 40-year-old woman, driving home with groceries for her husband and eight children, was killed Tuesday night when her automobile struck two utility poles.

Mrs. Bertha Proctor was found lying beside her wrecked car on the Livonia Center Road near this community 20 miles south of Rochester.

Police said Mrs. Proctor had driven to Livonia Center to do her grocery shopping.

New Plan Aimed

in addition to the maximum five per cent penalty plus a $1 fee for notice.

"It is important," the mayor wrote, "to impose penalties for non-payment of taxes after a specific date, and still more important to enforce penalties without exception." He noted in his talk to the aldermen that the city still has some $80,000 due in unpaid taxes.

The proposed charge, he said is not, "to mete out punishment, but to insure prompt realization of the tax levy."

The charter now provides, he noted, that after June 21 a five per cent penalty plus a $1 notice fee be charged, but it fails to provide further penalty until the date of tax sale usually in December.

Hopes for Solution

"You can readily understand why delinquent taxes are not paid in this period. This is the time of year when the city needs the money." He said it is believed that a charge of one half of one per cent of the amount due for each month or part thereof in which an installment remains unpaid, the problem will be solved.

He therefore proposed amending the city charter to provide for the extra charge to become effective this year.

Another proposal suggested by former City Treasurer M. G. Richardson, and adopted, approves city use of "certificates of deposit" to gain bank interest on unused deposited money. It was noted that the city now has a "capital account" of $130,000 in the Rondout National Bank to be used later to improve the city's sanitary sewer system. By use of certificates of deposit, $100,000 of this would remain on deposit for interest redeemable at option.

On the proposed urban renewal charge, Eric Hemphill, executive director of the UR Agency, wrote:

Seeks More Parking

"It is requested that the Common Council aprove an amendment to the Broadway East urban renewal plan to require three off-street parking spaces for every four dwelling units for the low-rent public housing site, instead of one and one-half spaces for each public housing unit as required under the approved urban renewal plan.

See Enough Parking

"The Kingston Housing Authority claims that it will be unable to provide parking at a ratio of one and one-half spaces to one dwelling unit, as now required, because land will not be available on the site in a sufficient amount after placement of the buildings, and further that utilization of the existing parking area at Colonial Gardens indicates that the proposed standard of three parking spaces for every four dwelling units will provide enough parking to meet the realistic off-street parking needs in the proposed public housing project for Broadway East.

"The Urban Renewal Administration has advised that this proposed plan change can be treated as a minor plan amendment and that public hearings are not required.

"It is therefore requested that the Common Council approve a minor change in the UR plan for the Broadway East project outlined above." The proposal was left with the laws and rules and urban renewal committees.

Alderman Joseph Epstein (D) Sixth Ward, who had previously held that council chair, said a main purpose of his returning was to be watchful of the downtown area and better conditions there.

Would Be Wonderful

Urban Renewal, he felt, would ultimately be "wonderful" for the area, although some people would "be hurt" at first. He urged the Urban Renewal Agency "To step on the gas."

Because of heavy night truck travel and other overnight conditions in the area, he asked that a policeman be on night patrol there.

He cited poor condition of streets in the area, and in referring to the vacant tract left some 12 years ago as a "clearance" area required in building the Gardens housing project, he noted it was littered with various kinds of junk and he dubbed the site CAMP because it is bounded by Chambers, Ann, Meadow and Pierpont Streets.

Referring to his intentions to see that things get done in the downtown area, he promised "I'm going to fight to keep them on their toes."

Alderman John Machione (R) 12th Ward, minority council leader, was pleased with the idea of the mayor addressing the council. He felt it had not been done often enough in the past and suggested it should be done more often in the future. He congratulated Alderman - at - Large Koenig.

Wolfe Heads Commission

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Assemblyman Louis Wolfe, D-Plattsburgh, is the new chairman of the New York State panel of the Interstate Commission on the Lake Champlain Basin.

Wolfe was elected Tuesday to succeed former Democratic Sen. John H. Quinn of Plattsburgh, who was defeated for re-election in November.

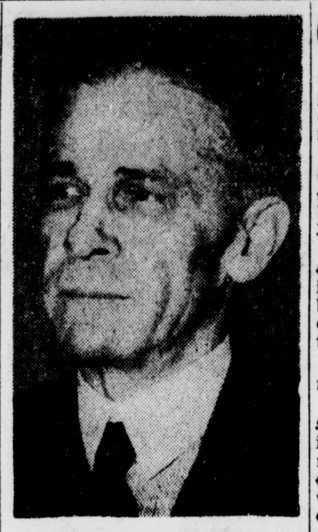

The commission's rules require that the chairman of the state panel be a legislator.

Indicted on Evasion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. James B. Dorsey, 37, a Saratoga Springs physician and lawyer, is under indictment on a charge of attempted evasion of federal income taxes totaling nearly $10,000.

A federal grand jury indicted Dorsey Tuesday in connection with taxes owed for the years 1960-61 on the joint income of his wife and himself. Dorsey's arraignment was set for Jan. 17.

Dorsey served as Saratoga County coroner in 1961.

40-Year Rotarian Dies; Was Local Bank Executive

Retired bank executive and longtime Kingston Rotarian, Henry D. Fagher, 79, of DeWitt Mills Road, Whiteport, died Tuesday.

Mr. Fagher retired as cashier and vice president of the Rondout National Bank Jan. 1, 1948 after 30 years of service. He had joined the staff November, 1917, as a bookkeeper, was later appointed teller and in 1924 cashier.

Prior to his bank positions, Mr. Fagher was a purser on the Hudson River steamboats Benjamin B. Odell and Baldwin.

Joined Rotary in 1925

He joined Kingston Rotary Club in 1925 and maintained a perfect attendance record for over 35 years. Mr. Fagher also served as treasurer of Rotary for several years.

During World War II, he served on the Town of Rosendale Draft Board.

Mr. Fagher was a member of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church of Bloomington, serving as treasurer and elder of the church for many years. He was a member of Rondout Lodge No. 343, F&AM.

Funeral Is Friday

Surviving are his wife, the former Clara Wirth; a son, Herbert O. Fagher of Whiteport and a daughter, Mrs. John Meek of Albany. Also surviving are a grandson, John Henry Meek of Albany and a sister, Mrs. Jennie Krom of Whiteport.

Funeral services will be held at the Bloomingdale Reformed Church, Bloomington, Friday 2 p. m. Burial will be in Bloomington Cemetery. Friends may call at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Kingston, Thursday 7 to 9 p. m.

State Bar Asks Better Treatment For Alcoholics

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Bar Association urges better treatment and care facilities for chronic alcoholics, instead of what it calls the present policy of "inhumane and repeated" jailing.

In a report issued by its committee on public health, the association called for creation of a special state commission to deal with the problem drinker.

About 700,000 persons in the state are alcoholics, the group said, and they are "socially inadequate people" whose inebriation "is only a symbol."

The lawyers group asked for "the creation of facilities for the care, treatment and rehabilitation of indigent and chronic alcoholics as an alternative to their present inhumane and repeated incarceration."

The Metcalf-Mondello Act, under which an alcoholic may be committed to state - supported hospitals for treatment, is a "starting point," the association said, and such centers should be expanded.

Since the state currently receives $100 million in taxes and revenues from the alcoholic beverages industry, the report said, "neither the state nor the public ...can reasonably begrudge the relatively minor expenditure to render the act effective."

Deaths

Ralston S. Holmes

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Rear Adm. Ralston Smith Holmes, 83, former Navy chief of staff, director of naval intelligence and commandant of the Naval Academy, died Tuesday. Holmes, who graduated from the Naval Academy in 1903 and headed it from 1932 to 1935, retired in 1943.

Richard C. Dillon

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —Richard C. Dillon, 88, Republican, governor of New Mexico for two terms, from 1927-1931, died Tuesday after undergoing an operation for a pancreas ailment Dec. 31. Dillon, who was defeated in a race for the U.S. Senate in 1934 and retired from politics, operated a mercantile business at nearby Encino.

Dr. Claude M. Wise

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dr. Claude M. Wise, 78, retired head of the Louisiana State University Speech Department and former president of the American Speech Association, died Tuesday.

Queen Elizabeth receives an annual grant of about $1,330,000 from Parliament. This includes her privy purse of $168,000 and funds for household salaries and expenses.

Governor Pledges

tails on his proposals today, the governor said the boosts "can and will be met within the existing revenue structure."

The state sales tax, which took effect Aug. 1, and an expanding economy are expected to close the gap between revenues this year and next year.

The areas in which the governor promised to recommend improvements, which presumably will include higher spending, covered virtually the entire spectrum of state government.

He hinted at the possibility of more state aid to education.

He promised to come up with specific recommendations for improving existing programs for meeting "the state's fair share of ever-increasing school costs, with emphasis on educational quality and opportunity for all."

It appeared from that language that the aid would be aimed at problem areas, such as eliminating racial imbalance.

Broad Hike Unlikely

A broad increase in state aid to education, such as the $157 million boost approved last year, was considered unlikely.

The governor also told the lawmakers he would recommend an increase in the salaries of state employes "so to continue to attract and hold dedicated and qualified employes." No price tag was set on that boost, either.

Rockefeller concentrated in his message on four goals, to make New York State:

Four Main Goals

—The safest place to live, through "a major assault on the problem of drug addiction," expanding the Bureau of Criminal Investigation in the State Police Division to help fight organized crime, setting minimum - pay standards for local police and creating a State Police Academy that would be open to local law-enforcement officers.

—The cleanest place to live, by an intensive effort to eliminate air pollution as a companion measure to the crash program, now under way, to eliminate water pollution.

—The state of greatest educational and other opportunities for all, by improving education, training welfare recipients to make them self-supporting and retraining workers displaced by automation.

—The state that does the most to protect its citizens against the adversities of illness and the problems of old age.

No Divorce Reference

The governor made no reference to what is expected to be one of the most explosive issues of the session, reform of the state's divorce law.

That statute, nearly 200 years old, recognizes a single-ground, adultery, as cause for divorce in New York State.

A legislative committee has proposed the addition of other grounds to broaden the law.

Rockefeller's first marriage ended in a divorce obtained by his former wife in Reno, Nev., in 1962. His present wife divorced her husband in Idaho. The ground in both cases was extreme mental cruelty.

While the drafting of a legislative reapportionment plan will be the most pressing issue of the first month of the session, the governor made only a passing reference to it. He urged the lawmakers to resolve it "so we may turn our attention to dealing with the challenges before us."

Shorter Than Usual

The 4,000-word message was considerably shorter than his previous ones and was timed for a half-hour, live television broadcast.

The governor asserted that "the people of this state enjoy greater opportunity—better jobs, better pay, better schools and a better chance for a good life than ever before."

Several of the plans reported in the Rockefeller message were made public earlier, either on the governor's statewide tour or in statements issued by him.

In several instances, he said he was awaiting recommendations of various study groups before drafting his own proposals.

One of these is a committee that will suggest ways to compensate the victims of violent crime and the "Good Samaritan" who suffers when he attempts to prevent a crime.

Education Message Later

In other parts of the message aimed at education, the governor said he would submit later detailed legislation to:

—Set up a plan under which the state would contract with private colleges for such services as training doctors, dentists and others in the health field.

—Establish four, two-year technical colleges, on an experimental basis, for providing higher education for students whose needs are not met by existing institutions of the State University. Two of the schools would be in New York City and two Upstate. The sites were not specified.

—Set up centers for pre-kindergarten children from underprivileged homes to help prepare them for regular school.

—Establish area centers of cooperative educational services to provide, on a regional basis, vocational and other specialized training beyond the facilities of individual schools. Rockefeller vetoed a bill to achieve that purpose last year because of a church-state conflict.

Rocky Will Ask More U.S. Aid on Drugs, Pollution

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller served notice on President Johnson today to expect requests for more federal aid in two areas — narcotics control and water pollution.

Rockefeller pressed hard for more aid in these fields in his annual "State of the State" message to the Legislature.

He said he would propose a "human renewal" program for treating drug addicts that would be financed on the same basis as the current urban renewal program. He did not say how much money would be involved.

Under urban renewal, the federal government pays two thirds of the cost of acquiring and clearing building sites, while the state and local governments share the rest.

Rockefeller said the federal government had a moral, financial and legal responsibility in this field because most of the drug traffic originates abroad.

"The federal government has not been able to stop this dope traffic — and is doing little to help meet the cost of repairing the social damage inflicted on our communities and their citizens," Rockefeller declared.

The Republican governor also said he would renew his demands that the federal government pay 30 per cent of the cost of building $1.7 billion worth of local sewage-treatment facilities in this state.

"I am hopeful," he said, "that President Johnson and the federal administration will give major emphasis this year to developing a federal program that will match the urgency and magnitude of the problem."

Meanwhile, the state will advance the proposed federal share of the anti-pollution program, he said.

Columbia Dedicates Lab

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest medical research building—a $15-million, 20-story structure — has been dedicated by Columbia University.

The laboratory is named for restaurant chain executive William Black, a Columbia alumnus of the class of 1920. His $5-million gift was the largest amount received by the university from a living person in its 211-year history.

Local Firm Wins Carpet Institute Excellence Award

Hudson Rug Company, which operates retail carpet stores in Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and Kingston, has won the "Award for Retail Excellence" given by the American Carpet Institute, it was announced by Ira Bose, manager of Kingston Carpet Specialty Shop, 112-118 North Front Street.

American Carpet Institute Awards are the top national honors of the carpet industry. They are presented annually for "outstanding leadership in carpet merchandising through modern selling methods and consumer services which have contributed to better homes and better living in the community."

Leading Retail Chain

Hudson Rug Company is the New York State division of Sandler & Worth, a leading retail carpet chain. As such, it shares the ACI Award with its sister stores, located in New Jersey and operating under the name of Sandler & Worth. Lewis Sandler, president of Sandler & Worth, accepted the "Award for Retail Excellence" for the company at a floor-covering industry dinner at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago on January 4.

Hudson Rug Company began business in 1929 as a carpet specialty operation, with the establishment of the Newburgh store. The store in Poughkeepsie was opened in 1963. Shortly afterwards, Sandler & Worth acquired Hudson Rug Company. The third Hudson Rug store was launched in Kingston in August, 1965.

The American Carpet Institute, in bestowing its award, noted that Hudson Rug has traditionally emphasized quality products, and thus features the products of a select group of manufacturers. Its advertising is devoted to branded merchandise, no less than to price. A consistent company policy is to train salesmen in basic carpet knowledge, mainly through study-visits to leading carpet mills, where the Hudson Rug men learn carpet technology salesmanship and home decorating. A separate Contract Division specializes in the installation of carpet in offices, shops, apartment buildings, schools and churches.

Won Industry Praise

The ACI also observed that Hudson Rug's merchandising programs, exhibits and consumer showings have won praise in the industry as "tasteful" and noncommercial. Most important of all, despite the competition of discount operations, Hudson Rug's growth and prestige have increased from year to year.

"We here at Hudson Rug Company," Bose said, commenting on the award, "are indeed proud to have earned this singular honor. In the future, as in the past, we shall continue to endeavor to put quality carpeting within the reach of every family in the Mid-Hudson Valley region.

Old Beauty Is Expensive

GLOUCESTER, England (AP) —Medieval abbeys though beautiful are uncomfortable, inconvenient and expensive to keep up, says the Rt. Rev. Dyfrig Rushton, Roman Catholic Abbot of Prinknash Abbey, Gloucestershire, who wants to set up a new monastery building near his existing 16th Century abbey. Objections have been raised by preservation societies and the Abbot claims that the resulting delays already will raise the cost to the Beneidctines by 25 per cent. Now a public inquiry is being held to settle the issue.

Grandmother Sentence For Stabbing Husband

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Wilson Butler, a 50-year-old grandmother, has been sentenced to serve 2½ to 5 years in Westfield State Prison for Women for fatally stabbing her husband May 9.

Judge Charles J. Gaughan of Erie County Court pronounced sentence Tuesday, after Mrs. Butler had pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree assault. She had been indicted on a charge of manslaughter.

Mrs. Butler entered a tavern and stabbed her 46-year-old husband with a knife after he refused to return home, police said.

The Butlers lived at 16 Adams St., Buffalo.

Three Quit CORE Staff, McKissick Not Surprised

NEW YORK (AP) — Three key staff members of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) have resigned.

The resignations were disclosed Tuesday night, a day after the civil rights organization named Floyd McKissick as national director to replace the resigned James Farmer.

McKissick, who will take over from Farmer March 1, said the resignations did not surprise him.

See Militant Move

"That occurs anytime there's a transfer of leadership," said McKissick, a Durham, N.C., lawyer.

Some persons have viewed the election of McKissick as turning the 23-year-old nonviolent protest organization toward more militant action in Northern cities.

The staff members who resigned are Dr. George Wiley, associate director; Edward Day, general business manager, and Greg Harris, public relations director.

McKissick, who was national chairman of CORE for three years, and Wiley were generally considered to be the top contenders for Farmer's post when CORE's National Action Council met last weekend to name a new national director. McKissick received 8 votes and Wiley 8, a source said. Wiley is a chemistry professor on leave from Syracuse University.

Wiley told a newsman Tuesday night that he felt he "could make my best contribution to civil rights in other ways." He said his plans were not yet definite.

Wiley also said:

Think Thrust Lacking

"I think we all realize that we haven't developed as much of a Northern thrust as we wanted to. The problems are so much more complicated in the North. The result is a splintering of the Northern movement.

"I hope that CORE will be able to play a role in changing this. It could conceivably be a vehicle for developing the right kind of thrust in the North."

Rescue 3 Marooned In Hackensack Swamp

LYNDHURST, N.J. (AP) — A New York City police helicopter rescued three workers marooned in a swampy section of the Hackensack Meadows on Tuesday.

The men had been making test borings for a construction job. They were beginning to move out of the swamp in a rowboat when the boat hit a submerged log and was disabled.

They scrambled onto a small island and one — Joseph Imperato, 43, of Brooklyn, N.Y. — got on a barrel float they had been using and made his way to solid land two miles away in Rutherford.

He contacted police, who felt that an attempt to reach the men by boat might fail with darkness descending.

They asked the New York police for assistance and a helicopter was sent to the rescue. It landed on the island and picked up Robert Klaus, 26, of Nutley; John Calarco, 29, of Jersey City, and Joseph La Spragata, 38, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

None of the four men required immediate medical attention.

They were employed by Warren George Inc. of Jersey City.

Must Prove Ownership

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Conservation Department now requires anyone registering a motor boat to present proof of ownership.

James J. O'Brien, director of the Division of Motor Boats, said Tuesday an increase in boat thefts and fraudulent registrations necessitated the change.

A bill of sale must accompany applications for the registration of new boats, he said.

Set Seminar on U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — High-ranking county and municipal leaders in the state are invited to a federal seminar in Washington for a briefing on federal -aid programs.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., issued the invitations Tuesday to the state's 616 mayors, 62 chairmen of county boards of supervisors and 10 county managers.

Kennedy's office said Tuesday the one-day seminar would be held sometime in February or March.

Plead Innocent

NEW YORK (AP) — Three men accused of burning their draft cards in Union Square last Nov. 6 have pleaded innocent in federal court.

They are Thomas Charles Cornell, 31, of New York, publications director of the Catholic Peace Fellowship; Marc Paul Edelman, 20, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., and Roy Lisker, 27, of New York, affiliated with the Committee for Non-violent Action.

Judge Sidney Sugarman set Feb. 7 for the next court appearance, when a trial date may be set. The three were released in their own recognizance.

Expect St. John's Pickets 2nd Day

NEW YORK (AP) — The sprawling, twin campuses of St. John's University appeared almost certain targets for more picketing today in a dispute over what role the faculty should play in policy setting at the nation's largest Roman Catholic college.

Teachers, students and trade unionists picketed the campuses in Jamaica and Brooklyn Tuesday on the first day of a strike sparked by the pre-holiday dismissal of 31 professors.

Success Claimed

Unanswered as the last of the pickets left the campuses after the close of evening classes was how effective the demonstration had been.

Strike leaders claimed a complete success in their efforts to shatter the teaching schedule at the school. University officials said the strike was a flop.

The AFL-CIO Federation of that "teaching is impossible under present conditions at the university."

Mayor John V. Lindsay offered to provide mediators to help iron out the dispute which has been simmering since last spring.

The Rev. Joseph Tinnelly, special counsel to the university's Board of Trustees, turned down the offer on the grounds that "bargaining, mediation and the like are appropriate in many other areas, but are not appropriate in the academic areas."

The picketing went on Tuesday without incidence. There were no reports of violence at either campus.

90 PC Attend

Father Tinnelly estimated that about 90 per cent of the university's 18,000 regular students showed up for class, despite a citywide subway and bus strike which kept the school from reopening Monday as scheduled.

He also said only 43 of the school's 651 teachers had failed to show up for their assigned classes. Normally about 25 professors are absent on any given day, he said.

Found Guilty; Emptied Friend's Apartment

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —A 34-year-old man has been found guilty of second-degree grand larceny after, police said, he emptied his friend's apartment in a few hours of everything but the stove and refrigerator.

Judge Harry L. Rosenthal of Monroe County Court set the sentencing of Harold T. Riggson of Rochester for Jan. 28, after a jury found him guilty Tuesday.

Police said Lee W. Sidney, 38, of Rochester, who had known Riggson for two years, had loaned him the key to his apartment and permitted him to stay there for two nights. Riggson had told Sidney he had no place to stay, police said.

Sidney went to work on Oct. 29 and when he returned that night, all his clothes and furniture were gone.

Riggson lives at 171 Troup St., and Sidney, at 218 Colvin St.

Tourists Leave

ZERMATT, Switzerland (AP) —Hundreds of tourists poured out of this ski resort by train today after being cut off by an avalanche for 36 hours.

The avalanche crashed down on Zermatt's railway station early Tuesday. The railway and road which provide the only public access to the resort were closed by the authorities, who feared further snow slides.

A temporary station was set up about 800 yards down the line today and five trains brought the stranded tourists down the valley. About 6,000 winter sports visitors were in the resort when the avalanche struck.

Railway officials said the avalanche danger on the line is now past and trains are expected to run normlly Thursday.

G-U Sales Gain

EAST PATERSON, N. J. — Sales of the Grand Union Company for the four-week period ended Dec. 25, 1965, totaled $70,576,861, it was announced today by the Eastern food chain. This represents an increase of 4.8 per cent over sales of $67,331,275 in the comparable period of 1964. For the first 43 weeks of the company's current fiscal year through Dec. 25, 1965, sales were $641,983,492, an increase of 5 per cent over sales of $611,525,087 in the corresponding period a year ago. Grand Union currently has 526 supermarkets and Grand Way Department Stores in operation. The number was 522 a year ago.

Author Leaves $66,492

LONDON (AP) — American author Robert Ruark left an estate in Britain valued at $66,492, his will published in London disclosed today.

Ruark died in a London hospital last July 1. He was 49.

The writer left all his manuscripts, letters and papers relating to his work to the University of North Caroina.

His estate in other countries is believed to be much larger than his British holdings.

Elmira Official Resigns

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Neil S. Gordon, Chemung County health commissioner since 1958, announced his resignation Tuesday night and said he would become deputy state health officer in Maryland.

No successor was named for Gordon, 48, who has been in public health work since 1948. He said he would assume his new position by March 1.

Accuse Trucker In Slaying of Island Woman

CALVERTON, N.Y. (AP) — Police accuse a truck driver of slaying a 38-year-old woman — wife of an Air Force sergeant serving in Vet Nam — after a quarrel during a New Year's Eve party they attended together.

The truck driver, Carl Orlowski, 34, was booked on a second-degree murder charge by Suffolk County police Tuesday night.

Orlowski took the victim, Shirley Phillips, to the party at a Long Island dance hall and left it with her after they had argued, poice said.

Mrs. Philips, clad in an evening gown, was found strangled in a wooded section here Monday. She was identified through a photograph taken at a morgue.

MAN OF STEEL—Edmund F. Martin, above, chairman of the board of Bethlehem Steel, is central figure in the new steel price storm. Martin, 63, took over the helm of the company two years ago and said then, "My main ambition is to make some money for the firm." Martin started with the firm when he was 19. (AP Wirephoto)

HUAC Will Call KKK Members For Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities is expected to call Ku Klux Klan members from Bogalusa, La., as witnesses today.

A number of Bogalusa residents under committee subpoena sat in the front rows Tuesday awaiting their turn as the committee, reopening its Klan hearings, centered on a north Louisiana Klan group. Bogalusa, near the Mississippi border, has been described as a center of Klan activity and racial violence.

Seeking Link

Judging from Tuesday's testimony, the committee again is seeking to link the Klan with violence and portray its leaders as profiting financially from Klan activities. It pursued a similar line at earlier hearings last October.

The committee heard testimony Tuesday about six-man "wrecking crews" to be set up in each local Klan with their identities kept secret even from their fellow Klansmen. The subject of castration also was brought up.

But the testimony came from the committee's chief investigator, Donald T. Appell, not from Louisiana Klan witnesses.

The witnesses called, identified as leaders of the original Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, operating in northern Louisiana, invoked the Fifth Amendment and declined to testify, following the pattern of Eastern seaboard Klan leaders during the committee's hearings last fall.

Refuse to Answer

Murray H. Martin of Winnsboro, La., identified as a high official of this Klan group, was on the stand refusing to answer all questions when castration was brought up.

Appell said it was discussed at a Klan meeting in Montgomery, Ala., May 22, 1965.

He asked if it was "reported by any leaders that they would not engage in castration, but if it was necessary to liquidate someone to prove the Klan was not kidding, this would be done?" Martin wouldn't answer.

Killed in Mishap

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP) — Coast Guardman Billy H. Moorehouse, 18, was killed Tuesday night when he stepped into the turning propeller of a C-123 airplane at the U.S. Coast Guard Base here, officers said.

Moorehouse, an aviation electronics technician, third class, was a crew member and had just debarked after a routine logistics flight from Kodiak, Alaska.

Survivors include his father, William J. Moorehouse of Penn Yan, N.Y. and his mother, Mrs. Dayton Knapp of Dundee, N.Y.

Will Propose Specific Steps

Rocky Links Air, Water Pollution Closely in State of Union Message

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller urged the Legislature today to authorize a major drive against air pollution as a companion to the state's massive attack on water pollution.

He linked the two problems closely in his annual "State of the State" message, declaring:

"The people of this state are rightly concerned about the dangers to health in the water they drink and the very air they breathe."

Rockefeller reported that Dr. Edward Teller, the famous nuclear scientist, had agreed to spearhead an attempt to achieve "new scientific breakthroughs" in dealing with air pollution.

Teller working through the State University, will try "to mobilize the best talent in the nation" to work on this project, Rockefeller said.

Meanwhile, the governor said he would propose specific steps to achieve these objectives:

— Stronger enforcement of anti - pollution standards "wherever feasible."

— Tax incentives to reduce air pollution by industry.

— Maximum use of federal funds for air-pollution abatement.

— A program of state aid to encourage planning of modern, municipal refuse - disposal systems.

Rockefeller said that, besides working on air-pollution, Teller would look into the water-pollution problem and also study ways of preventing massive electric-power blackouts such as that of Nov. 9.

On the subject of water pollution, Rockefeller reported on steps being taken to implement the $1.7 - billion program approved by the 1965 Legislature. New York voters approved a $1-billion bond issue last November to help finance the project.

As conceived by Rockefeller, the program would require local governments to pay 40 per cent of the cost of building sewage-treatment facilities, while the state and federal governments split the remaining 60 per cent.

He observed, however, that the federal government had not increased federal aid for this purpose. The state, he said, will advance an additional 30 per cent in anticipation of such action.

"I am hopeful," Rockefeller said, "that President Johnson and the federal administration will give major emphasis this year to developing a federal program that will match the urgency and magnitude of the problem."

Such a program, said Rockefeller, should provide for:

— A full 30 per cent contribution by the federal government.

— Reimbursement to states that advance the money in the meantime.

— Fast tax write-offs to encourage industry to build its own treatment facilities.

On the state level, Rockefeller said he would ask the Legislature for:

— "Streamlined procedures" for court action by the attorney general against communities and industries who continue to pollute state waters.

—Funds to set up a statewide "water-quality monitoring system."

— Funds to correct pollution from state facilities promptly.

Ausman Is Named By Ingraham to Hospital Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Health Department announced today the appointment of Dr. Robert K. Ausman of Buffalo as assistant commissioner for hospital affairs, at $27,000 a year.

Commissioner Hollis S. Ingraham said Ausman would head the department's new Division of Hospital Affairs, which will supervise the certification of all types of hospitals and nursing homes in the state, except mental hospitals. Its three bureaus will handle medical review, health economics and hospital inspections.

Ingraham said Ausman's duties would include certifying those hospitals and nursing homes in the state eligible to participate in Medicare, the federal government's program of health insurance for the aged.

Since 1961, Ausman has been director of Health Research Inc., a non-profit organization that channels funds for research into units of the State Health Department, and of local health departments.

Rome Cable Strike Goes Into 53rd Day

ROME, N.Y. (AP)—Six hundred union employes today carried their strike against the Aluminum Company of America's Rome Cable Division into its 53rd day.

Members of Lodge 1875, International Association of Machinists, voted 536 to 62 Tuesday to turn down a company contract proposal.

Paul Fitsik, lodge president, said members were dissatisfied with seniority, pension provisions and work rules.

The union had said wages and contract changes were the subjects of disagrement, but neither the company nor the union commented further.

The plant, which employes about 800, shut down Nov. 14 when union members struck after the expiration of the old contract

Will Seek Bills Dealing With Illness, Old Age

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller told the Legislature today he would seek approval of bills designed to help New York State residents deal with the "hardships that come with illness or old age."

Rockefeller said in his annual "State of the State" message that his program for the ill and aged would implement previously approved legislation aimed at holding down the rising costs of hospitalization and include further proposals.

More Needed

To help increase efficiency in the operation of hospitals and nursing homes, the governor said he would ask in his budget for more money for state and regional hospital - review councils.

He did not say how much money he would seek but said more was needed "in view of their greatly expanded role and responsibilities."

He also said he would advance during the 1966 session these proposals aimed at assuring "medical care of the highest quality for all our citizens:"

— Legislation detailing terms of state loans for construction and improvement of non-profit nursing homes for patients with low incomes. Under this plan, approved by the voters last November, the state would loan money at low interest through the State Housing Finance Agency to the prospective builders.

—Similar loans for construction and reconstruction of hospitals and equipment. The intent of this plan is to reduce hospital costs.

—Contracts with private universities for expanding student enrollment or to provide increased financial support for students in medicine, dentistry, nursing and other health fields. This is designed to encourage more young people to enter the health professions.

The Advisory Council on Alcoholism will be directed to proceed with a plan for establishment of a major institute to focus on the problem of alcoholism, the governor said.

To Implement Medicare

Rockefeller also promised action to "implement" the federal Medicare program, "assuring that its benefits are available to all our citizens with a uniformly high standard of medical care."

In addition, the governor said he would recommend legislation to broaden the "scope, quality and duration" of medical care for needy persons, now available under federal programs.

Some of the proposals advanced today were among dozens submitted to the governor last year by the Folsom Committee, which he assigned to study hospital costs and hospital-insurance rates.

Says State Will Top All Others In Pupil Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association says New York will lead all other states this year with school expenditures of $869 per pupil.

Association statistics published here also say that New York will rank second overall by spending a grand total of $3.05 billion.

California is expected to spend $3.45 billion of a predicted national total of $25.8 billion for public elementary and secondary schools.

Volpe Pledges Help

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe has signed a bill authorizing Massachusetts to contribute $250,000 to continue long-haul commuter service of the New Haven Railroad.

Connecticut has contributed $950,000 and Rhode Island $500,000 to preserve the railroad's passenger service through June 30. The service to be subsidizied links Boston and New York via Providence, R.I., and New Haven, Conn., and a line between Springfield and New York via Hartford and New Haven.

Governor Skirts Divorce Issue In His Message

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's annual message to the Legislature today skirted one of the most sensitive issues confronting the 1966 session—the divorce laws.

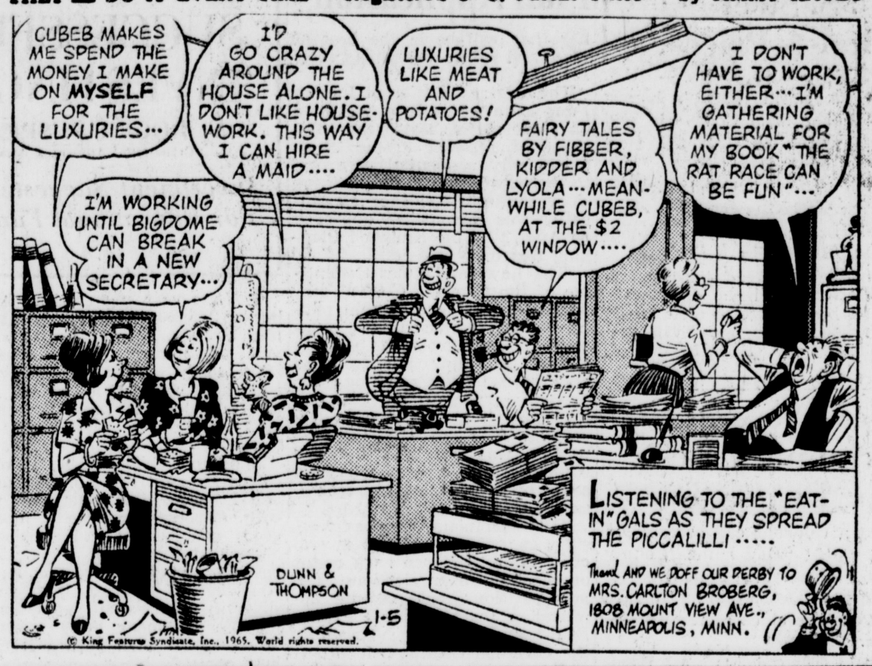

The governor made no mention of proposals by a Senate-Assembly study committee for broadening the grounds for divorce in this state. The only grounds now is adultery.

Rockefeller's first wife traveled out of state—to Reno, Nev.—in 1962 to divorce him on the grounds of extreme mental cruelty. His present wife divorced her first husband in Idaho, on similar grounds.

Rockefeller has declined in the past to take a position on the question of broadening the New York law. His last comment on the issue was that he was awaiting the study committee's report "with interest," but he has not commented on its recommendations.

The committee proposal considered most controversial would permit a couple to be divorced after living apart for at least two years—in effect a divorce by mutual consent.

Injuries Are Fatal To Syracuse Youth

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Allen B. Graves, 17, of Syracuse, died Tuesday night at St. Joseph's Hospital, Syracuse, of injuries suffered in a traffic accident on New Year's Day.

A companion, Leonard S. Lakeman, 16, of suburban Liverpool, was killed when the automobile in which the youths were riding struck a culvert along the Onondaga Parkway, north of here.

State Police said the car had been reported stolen.

Graves' address was 717 Second North St.

Governor Bids Lawmakers Unite For Convention

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller urged the Legislature today to put aside politics in preparing for the state constitutional convention to be held next year.

"We must look to our forthcoming constitutional convention not as a series of legalistic or partisan skirmishes but as a rusing opportunity for all to fight for a better tomorrow," the Republican governor said.

He discussed the convention in the closing remarks of his annual message to the Legislature.

"We must seek to mobilize the best minds, the best talents, the most eminent scholars, the most outstanding political leaders of both parties and all other authorities available for the task of helping us to prepare for the constitution of 1967," the Republican governor said.

He noted that the 1966 Legislature was divided politically. But, the governor said, "let us be united in our purpose — to serve the wishes, needs and aspirations of all New Yorkers..."

When you have an AUTOMATIC CLOTHES DRYER

Let it sleet and snow... you won't worry, ever again, about drying clothes the old-fashioned way. No more waiting for a sunny day, no more stringing and hauling and pinning out in the bitter cold... no more cluttering up your kitchen or cellar with dripping wash. With a dryer you just transfer your laundry from the washer, turn the dial and presto! — instant sunshine any time of day or night. Your clothes come out wrinkle-free, fluffy-dry in a matter of minutes. A dryer takes most of the work out of washday, in fact, only your washer will save you so much time and work as your automatic clothes dryer!

See your local dealer about a dryer right away and bring some instant sunshine into your washdays!

Appointments Made

List Ulster Plans For Park in Town

Members of the town board of the Town of Ulster met at 11 a. m. on Jan. 1 at which time the new officials of the town assumed office and town appointments were made.

Musialkiewicz Presides

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, who was elected to succeed Alexander J. Banyo, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Rose Peters Krom was re-named town welfare officer; Abram D. Winchell was renamed superintendent of the Ulster Water District; Seymour Werbalowsky was named town attorney; Emanuel E. Emanuel was named as Planning Board consultant and will work in conjunction with the Town Planning Board; Dominick C. Brugnolotti was again named town Civil Defense director.

Town board meeting will be held on the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p. m. at the Lake Katrine Grange hall.

The State of New York National Bank and the Kingston Trust Company were named depositories for town funds.

To Form Commission

Plans are underway to develop a town park which was acquired some time ago through state aid. The area is located off Route 32 along the Hudson River beyond the Kingston-Rhiecliff bridge. A request was made of members of the board to submit by the Jan. 12 regular meeting of the board three names of persons willing to serve as Park Commissioners. It has been decided to move ahead in the development of the park area and a Park Commission will be formed to plan the development. Appointment of Park Commissioners will be made at the January meeting. The area was acquired through state payment of 75 per cent of the cost and 25 per cent by local town funds.

A plaque was presented to Erwin Craw, who has retired from the town planning board after 10 years of service. The plaque was presented in appreciation of the time and service which Craw, a Central Hudson estimate supervisor, has given the town during his term in office.

Retirees Honored

A tribute was paid to retiring town officials, including Sal Castiglione, councilman, and Mrs. Laura K. Every, who had served the town for many years as town clerk. Supervisor Musialkiewicz also welcomed the new members of the town board, Councilman William Costello and Mrs. Alma Macholdt, town clerk.

At the Jan. 12 meeting the board will appoint a councilman to fill out the unexpired term of Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, a position left vacant when he was elected supervisor last November.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels advanced vigorously early this afternoon, pacing a broad stock market advance toward new record highs. Trading was heavy.

The ticker tape ran as much as two minutes late in a wave of buying which followed news that the White House had found acceptable a price increase by U.S. Steel—a smaller one than announced previously by Bethlehem and Inland Steel.

Most steel stocks advanced a point or more, some advances stretching to about 3.

Buying mushroomed to other important sections of the stock list. Big Three motors catching on gradually and moving up to solid gains.

Chemicals, electrical equipments, electronics, aerospace issues, drugs and selected issues in many other groups made a strong showing.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon, taking off from Tuesday's historic closing high, rose 2.3 to 361.8 with industrials up 4.1, rails up .9 and utilities up .5.

The Dow Jones Industrial average at noon was up 8.46 at 977 72, having closed Tuesday at exactly the latest record high reached first on Dec. 31.

Cong Flushed

Cong threw up mortar fire, wounding eight Leathernecks including four officers and a master sergeant, in a valley 18 miles southwest of Da Nang.

Several companies of Marines, who were invading the valley for the first time, struck back and captured nine Viet Cong, some of whom were carrying documents, a spokesman said. One guerrilla blew himself up with a grenade rather than surrender.

The Marines reported a total of 16 Viet Cong killed and 16 suspects detained in the past 24 hours of patrolling.

Hit Variety of Targets

U.S. planes, including Navy jets from the carriers Hancock, Ticonderoga and Enterprise, struck a variety of targets in the South while the suspension of American air attacks on the Communist North continued for the 13th day. Spotters reported the planes destroyed an automatic weapons site, a motorized sampan, 119 structures — mostly huts — and some fortifications.

Air Force B52s flew in from Guam Tuesday night and blasted three target areas in Tay Ninh Province, 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

Heavily armed U.S. Army helicopters roared through stiff ground fire 15 miles southwest of Saigon to chase five camouflaged sampans on a canal. Two were reported sunk.

The Viet Cong attacked a Special Forces camp near the northern frontier and outposts along the central coast early today but were beaten off.

Wreck Barracks

Two mortar barrages wrecked the U.S. barracks and two other buildings at the Khe Sanh Special Forces camp, where 500 Vietnamese and their 12 American advisers are stationed about 40 miles from the 17th Parallel border with North Viet Nam. The attacks — one of which lasted two hours — inflicted moderate casualties, including one American slightly wounded, a spokesman said.

The mortars damaged two light observation planes on a nearby landing strip, and Communist fire hit another in the air but the pilot landed safely. U.S. Marine planes guided by flare ships helped drive off the guerrillas.

As an Air Force spokesman in Saigon announced another day without U. S. bombardment of the Communist North, the chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, said in Honolulu he would recommend a resumption of the raids if North Viet Nam refuses to negotiate.

Wheeler, who was returning to Washington after an extensive Far Eastern tour, also said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U. S. commander in Viet Nam, considers the B52 attacks on Communist areas in the South "very effective." He said Westermoreland "wants them continued and exploited."

In Vientiane, capital of neighboring Laos, two captured North Vietnamese army officers told AP correspondent John Cantwell that many of their countrymen blame the Hanoi government for the U. S. bombing of the North.

Cadet Officer Pham Dinh Thao, 30, said that "the people are angry in their hearts with their leaders, but they are too frightened to oppose them."

Pham's commanding officer, Le Huv Linh, 37, also said many North Vietnamese blamed their government for the raids. Both men said American bombs had fallen on many nonmilitary targets and killed many civilians.

The U. S. Military Command announced that 34 Americans were killed in action and 116 were wounded last week compared with 40 killed and 203 wounded in the previous seven-day period that ended Christmas night. Five Americans were listed as missing in action compared with 19 the previous week.

South Vietnamese casualties were 303 killed, 496 wounded and 189 missing in action, the U. S. Command said, while the Viet Cong toll for the week was put at 897 dead and 127 captured. This gave the U. S. and government troops a kill ratio of 2.6 to 1 over the Communists.

In Washington, the Pentagon announced that 1,385 U. S. servicemen were killed in combat in Viet Nam in 1965, an increase of nearly 1,000 per cent. In 1964, 146 Americans were killed.

The sharp rise in battle deaths brought the toll to 1,620 killed since Jan. 1, 1961. It reflected the large increase in U. S. forces in Viet Nam and the broadened American involvement in the ground and air fighting in the past year. There were 181,329 American servicemen in Viet Nam at the end of the year compared with 23,000 at the start.

Wicks Firemen to Meet

A. H. Wicks Truck and Engine Company will hold its annual meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at the engine house. There will be election of officers and other important business. A large attendance is requested. Refreshments will follow the business session.

U. S. Steel Boosts Prices

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steelmaker, said today it will boost prices on structural steel shapes by $2.75 a ton.

The action followed similar, but larger boosts by three other steel firms, including second-ranked Bethlehem Steel Corp.

The industry and the Johnson administration have been waiting to see what U.S. Steel would do following the price hike first announced by Bethlehem Dec. 31.

Move Several Criminal Cases For Disposition

At a calendar call of criminal cases held today before County Judge Raymond J. Mino, District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca moved several cases for disposition.

Dale Edward Fey, 23, Boonville, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny. He had been indicted for third degree burglary, unlawful entry and petit larceny. At the time of the crime he was a resident of Newburgh. His plea to the misdemeanor charge was accepted and imposition of sentence adjourned to February 2 at 2 p. m. Charles Saccoman appeared for defendant. Bail was continued.

Frank Irving Ellsworth of Flatbush Road, had his case adjourned to the April term in order to make restitution. A former employe of Ulster Park Provisions Company he was charged with second degree grand larceny alleged to have taken place between December 7, 1964 and February 10, 1965. Frederick H. Stang appeared for Ellsworth. Bail was continued.

The case of John Wesley Nickert, also known as John Negas, was adjourned due to a pending motion. Nickert is charged with second degree forgery and first degree grand larceny. Joseph Qualtere appeared for Nickert.

The case of James Frederick McDonald, also known as James D. McDonald, former state trooper, charged with making fraudulent claim against an insurance company, had his case adjourned to Jan. 12 at 10 a. m. for sentence. Charles Saccoman appeared for defendant.

Two second degree assault charges against John Frederick Scully were adjourned to Jan. 19 at 10 a. m. when his counsel, Charles Saccoman, reported Scully was recovering from surgery. Bail was continued.

Edward W. DeVarnne and William Mosher, Schenectady, charged iwth attempted first degree robbery, second degree assault and conspiracy as a felony, entered a plea of guilty to th second count of the indictment A. G. Bottieri appeared as counsel. Bail was continued and the cases were adjourned to February 2 at 2 p. m. for sentence. A third defendant, Theodore R. Ziabroeski, represented by George Beck, was absent due to illness.

Following the call of the calendar by District Attorney Torraca, Judge Mino held Youthful Offender court to dispose of Youthful Offender violations.

Court recessed until 2 p. m. when jail cases were to be taken up.

SchwenkRemarks

increased from $22,000.00 over the previous budgets to $50,500, an increase of $28,500.

The city is in a much better financial condition than it was when I took office on January 1, 1962. In the December meeting, the Common Council appropriated money from the surplus per capita State-aid account to the various departments, thereby correcting a very bad financial situation that has plagued this city for many years. This year for the first time in many years, the city has a budget on which it can operate from January 1 to December 31.

In a budget containing estimated revenues of $1,408,132, it is utterly ridiculous to state that the tax rate was reduced by .02 cents because of the fire in Lawton Park, which it is estimated that the city will receive approximately $5,500.

It is difficult for me to understand how a candidate for the office of Mayor, can publicly state, that he can save $200,000 in one department alone, the Board of Public Works, and after he is elected Mayor, state, "You cannot run the city without money—that has been tried for the past four years."

Plan Application

ner that will be in the best of taste and which will satisfy their severest critics.

"The original petition of Income Fund Enterprises Corp. was filed on June 5 of last year. The proposed rezoning from RR, a one family residential category, to the then proposed R-5, a three story multiple residence classification was unanimously approved on Aug. 2 by the Kingston Planning Board.

"The Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council conducted a public hearing in mid-November at which time a number of people from the vicinity of the proposed change, voiced opposition to the rezoning. The matter was before the Common Council in four occasions in December. One one occasion, the project was approved but the consent was shortlived when set aside on a parlimentary technicality.

"The Common Council as presently constituted, reflects several changes in aldermen as a result of the November elections. The new petition would require approval of the Kingston Planning Board and a public hearing by the Common Council before possible Council action approving the zoning change.

"Since both state and local statutes require Council action within 90 days after filing, it is my client's hope that prompt action on their new petition will be forthcoming.

"The plans of Income Fund Enterprises Corp. call for the construction of 273 garden type apartments on a 15.7 acre parcel of land. The dwellings are to be built of Hudson River brick and the builders have indicated it is their intention whenever possible, to use local labor and material in construction work. The apartment distribution is to be 25% efficiency units, 50% 1 bedroom and 25% 2 bedroom apartments.

"The buildings will occupy approximately 16 per cent of the land area of the project. Plans for a swimming pool servicing the project residents is planned.

not intend to ask for a sales tax at this time, and felt that the County Board of Supervisors had been lax in not acting on that source of revenue. He also indicated a change will be made in dealing with the annual snow removal charge, which is only partly represented in the annual budget.

The aldermen, he felt, should be "in on" the drafting of the city budget, and he cited several department charges, which he felt could be changed for a saving.

Kingston, he said "needs over a half million dollars in sewer work, but we'll not take that on this year.

City 'Broke' Four Years

The city, he held, has been "broke" for the past four years, although its bonded indebtedness is in "good condition."

The mayor cited several sources which will bring additional city revenue in 1966.

The net added budget sum required, he said, was arrived at after conference with heads of city departments, and he held if it is not raised the city will have no police, fire, public works or other departments.

Among other points made in his talk was that the two cents cut in the tax rate this year was made possible by including in the drafting of the budget the insurance sum expected from the recent fire at Lawton Park.

Alderman-at-Large Koenig, in announcing the recess, indicated that other legislation, along with that on the budget, will be considered at the recessed meeting, which is expected to be held within at least two weeks.

Rochester Board To Meet January 7

The combined regular meeting and the annual organizational meeting of the Rochester Town Board has been rescheduled for Friday 8 p. m. at the town clerk's office, Accord.

The meeting usually held on the first Thursday of each month has been rescheduled due to conflict of meetings.

Investment Suggested For Educational Funds

Q) Last year my children inherited $5,000. Their ages are four and six. I would like to invest this money in a growth stock to help insure a college education. Could you advise a growth stock I might invest in?"

S. Z.

A) Your children have received an excellent inheritance and I believe that your plan is wise. Although the price of most goods and services is rising, nothing appears to be leaping in cost like the expense of a college education. I suggest that you diversify somewhat, spreading the money among three growth issues rather than putting it all into one.

For your purpose, I like General Foods. This is our biggest producer of packaged foods with a built-in growth rate and freedom from cyclical influences. I also like Marshall Field & Company of Chicago and Seattle, one of our greatest mercantile enterprises, which has been developing a fine growth rate in recent years. As to a third choice, I advise Standard Oil of New Jersey — the world's major oil merchandiser which appears relatively cheap at today's level.

Q) "My husband and I are retiring. We are panicky, because we have our money in mutual funds and blue chip stocks. We know nothing about the market. What would be the best thing we could do?"

A. R.

A) If you are panicky holding stocks and have no knowledge of them—or a competent adviser—you should pull out. You can put your cash into a savings institution or savings bonds where your principal will remain intact. No one should hold stocks who is temperamentally unfitted to weather periodic market declines. If you do sell your stocks and invest in fixed income securities, you are leaving yourself open to inflation pressures which may decrease the purchasing power of your dollars. You must decide whether this factor outweighs your present panicky feeling. If so, you should retain a portion of your stock holdings.

LBJ Eyes . . .

wall opposition from North Viet Nam.

Not Relaxing Drive

The President gave no sign of relaxing his worldwide drive.

One of his objectives may be to rally such strong, international support for peace negotiations that North Viet Nam will come under increasingly heavy pressure to reconsider its position.

The peace drive takes a new turn today with Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, just back from a European mission as part of the offensive, making a report to the United Nations on his efforts and those of other emissaries, including roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams.

Goldberg conferred Tuesday with Johnson. The President approved his report to the United Nations. Goldberg said it would be issued as a Security Council document and would go to all United Nations members.

Ave, Nasser Confer

Harriman, meanwhile, spent almost two hours with United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdul Nasser and said that they discussed among other things "the significance of the pause in bombing (of North Viet Nam) which is indicative of President Johnson's desire for peace." Williams continued his tour of African countries.

The first official reaction, as distinguished from Communist press comment in Hanoi, to the Johnson peace drive came from the North Vietnamese Foreign Office Tuesday and it denounced the whole U.S. effort as "a mere repetition of old themes."

"The U.S. authorities' talks about peace are in complete contradiction with their war schemes and acts," the North Vietnamese statement said.

Administration officials were studying the statement but refused to make any comment on it.

Privately, however, officials held to the line that the bombing suspension will continue long enough to give authorities in North Viet Nam time to consider their whole position. Officials say the President has no deadline for resuming the bombings but that the continuation of the pause is under consideration from day to day.

Sees Cost Major Concern

Russell, in his interview, said the cost of the Viet Nam war is certain to be a major concern of the new session of Congress convening Monday.

Congress may be asked to approve early in the session a supplemental appropriation of as much as $11 billion to $12 billion for the war, he said.

This would be ahead of the regular new budget, he said, and in addition to $700 million supplied last May and another $1.7 billion for Viet Nam costs in the final catch-all appropriation of late last year.

Russell said he would convene soon a closed session of the special Senate panel which oversees the Central Intelligence Agency. The group wants detailed reports on Viet Nam, the unsettled Dominican situation and other world trouble centers.

William F. Raborn, CIA director and other top level intelligence officials will be questioned behind guarded doors.

Renews Blockade Plea

Russell renewed his plea for bombing and naval blockade of ports and harbors in North Viet Nam used to supply the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam forces.

"I see no difference between bombing these ports and the railroads, bridges and roads used for supply lines," he said.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Tuesday he goes along with the current peace offensive. But he cautioned against any negotiations which might compromise the 1954 Geneva agreements under which South Viet Nam's people would be free to choose their own government.

Dirksen said: "Our endeavors must be to bring this war to an end honorably and victoriously. We have got to make good on our pledges that the people of South Viet Nam will remain free.

"I am not one to compromise with the Communists. The problem is, what is a successful conclusion?"

List Saugerties

cost of government as reflected in the budget.

According to an announcement by Supervisor Peter M. Williams, Town of Saugerties tax rate for this year is $65.76 as compared to $63.21 for last year. The village rate for 1966 will be $54.14, somewhat higher than last year's $51.76.

Bills by Monday

All tax bills were expected to be in the mails by Monday. William Woestendiek, receiver of taxes, said he has received the tax roll and warrant for the collection of taxes for the present fiscal year, and will be on hand at the Town Building, Main Street, from Jan. 10 to Feb. 10 for the purpose of receiving taxes listed on the roll. Woestendiek's office hours will be: 9 a. m. to 12 noon and 12:30 p. m. to 3 p. m. each day expect Saturday, when he will be in attendance from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. No taxes will be collected on Sundays and holidays.

Woestendiek further noted that taxes may be paid on or before Feb. 10 without charge of interest. On all taxes remaining unpaid after Feb. 10, one per cent will be added for the first month (February) and an additional one-half of one per cent for each month and part of that month afterwards until the return of unpaid taxes is made by him to the county treasurer according to law.

Despite a $2,189 decrease in the Town of Saugerties budget totaling $228,610, increased county charges have upped the tax rate for township taxpayers.

Last year was the first time in the modern history of the township that taxes were raised for local cost of government. In previous years anticipated revenues exceeded all expenditures and taxes were levied only to cover charges and highway expenditures.

Even with the increase necessitated by county charges, a saving under the general fund in the budget was noted by Supervisor Williams. By assuming the position of town welfare officer himself, Williams lowered welfare expenses. He will serve at no salary, erasing the $2,500 expenditure in this department in the past.

Actually, Saugerties residents have fared fairly well in 1966. Anticipated revenues increased by additional state aid have made it possible for the Town to hold the line this year and the increase in the tax rate is not as high as it might have been.

Revenues in the amount of $87,926.90 in per capita state aid, the result of the recent special census to secure a new population count, accounted for some of the decrease in the Saugerties budget. Other revenue will come from welfare aid, mortgage tax, fines and penalties, licenses and permits, rents, insurance refund and other fees.

Ithaca Dem. Resigns

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) —James J. Clynes Jr., of Ithaca, resigned today as chairman of the Tompkins County Democratic Committee.

Clynes, a lawyer, had held the post for four years. He said additional duties of his legal practice made it necessary to resign.

No successor was named.

Killed by Own Car

NEW YORK (AP) — An employe of a city sewerage plant in Brooklyn was run over and killed by his own car after he stopped it in the plant driveway Tuesday night and got out to inspect something on the front of the vehicle, police said.

Mulenare lived at 87 Garfield Place, Brooklyn.

Hospital's . . .

during construction was the most economical way of assuring the community of the additional hospital space when needed. To add them later undoubtedly would cost twice as much as including them with the present construction, according to hospital authorities.

Used As Completed

Although Sunday's open house will mark the formal opening of the new wing, sections of it have been occupied as completed because of the pressing demand for space and to help make the move more efficiently and without disruption to patient services.

First section to be put into use was the pediatric section, occupied during the summer. The new main entrance and lobby, together with administrative and business offices and admitting office were put in use early in December.

The Kingston Hospital was organized in 1891. Cornerstone of the original building was laid in 1893. Reconstruction and enlargement projects were completed in 1916, 1928, 1955, 1959, and 1966.

"Each progressive step forward has been made possible by the work and support generously given by citizens, whose efforts have had and will continue to have lasting benefits to the health and well being of future generations," said President Kalish.

"The Board of Trustees is grateful to all those who had a part in making it possible for the Kingston Hospital to continue to meet the challenge not only of providing for the growing population of its service area, but also of keeping pace with advancing medical technology."

Proposes Basic

mittee he set up to study the problem.

In the realm of stepped-up state assistance, Rockefeller also said his budget would provide funds for "a program of basic education" of inmates of county penitentiaries, to cut down on the number of "revolving door" criminals.

He also recommended formally proposals he made public Tuesday for:

—Installing equipment, at state expense, that would link local law-enforcement agencies electronically to the state's criminal-record files in Albany.

—Enlarging the State Police's Bureau of Criminal Investigation so that it could work more extensively with local police forces.

—Establishing minimum-pay standards for local police forces and doubling the basic-training period for police recruits.

—Setting up a State Police Academy that not only would train new troopers but also help train some local law-enforcement officers.

—Requiring district attorneys of "large-population counties" to serve on a full-time basis. He did not specify a cutoff figure.

People Blame

only on special occasions.

Le claimed the U.S. bomb attacks are not affecting military forces in North Viet Nam.

"The ones who suffer are the people," he said. "The soldiers never go out during the day. They just stay in their trenches."

The two North Vietnamese were captured by Laotian army forces Dec. 22 after a battle near the Mekong River town of Thakhek. Le said they were sent in a special North Vietnamese battalion to Laos late in September to help protect the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the jungle network of trails and roads over which supplies and troops move from North Viet Nam through Laos to South Viet Nam.

Le said his battalion was sent into Laos because intelligence information indicated that the United States was preparing to send troops into Laos to block the trail.

Lindsay Seeks

union leader Michael J. Quill. He and eight other officers of two striking unions were arrested on the order of a judge who found them in contempt for ignoring a court order forbidding the strike.

But two hours after entering jail, Quill, a 60-year-old heart patient, collapsed.

A Bellevue Hospital spokesman said this morning Quill "looks improved, his color is back and he's more like himself." The spokesman said specialists still were studying tests to determine whether he had suffered a heart attack.

Adding another dimension to the crisis is the threat that a major commuter lifeline, the Long Island Rail Road, may be halted.

A predawn river of headlights flowed through Manhattan streets today as the motorized immigration reached its peak at an earlier hour.

Barnes said apparently economic pressures were forcing people to return to work as the strike lengthens.

To relieve the homeward-bound congestion, Barnes suggested that Lower Manhattan be divided into quarters. In each quarter employers would be asked to let their workers off at a different time between 3 and 5 p.m.

Mayor Cuts Time

Lindsay puffed into City Hall this morning, knocking three minutes off Tuesday's hiking time from his hotel.

Lindsay said he believed the transit negotiations were "moving."

Trainmen of the Long Island Rail Road plan to argue today that a federal court order should be lifted, allowing them to stop train service into New York in support of striking bus and subway workers.

They contend that the thousands of Queens residents diverted from the subway to the railroad are endangering the safe operation of the line.

Still Study Tests

Quill remained at Bellevue Hospital, where his condition was reported as serious but not critical. An electrocardiogram showed no definite sign of a heart attack, but a medical spokesman said the tests are still being studied.

Dr. Harry Zuckerman, who has treated Quill's previous heart trouble, said he is "suffering from total exhaustion. That's all we know at the moment."

The 60-year-old president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union hurled his defiance at a court order that he get the buses and subways running again right up to the moment he collapsed in the civil jail. He and eight other union officials had been arrested shortly before for contempt.

The AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen is threatening to shut down the Long Island Rail Road, the nation's busiest commuter line and a major link between Manhattan and the island.

The line normally carries about 300,000 persons a day, but since the strike thousands more who live in Queens have boarded the trains to reach Manhattan.

The brotherhood tried earlier to halt the trains at the city line, but the railroad got a temporary restraining order in Federal Court. A hearing on the order was scheduled today.

"It's asinine, stupid and preposterous to bring these people into the city," said Harold J. Pryor, the brotherhoods general chairman.

He said he was particularly concerned about what he called unsafe conditions on trains and in stations because of the huge crowds.

Lindsay Sets Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay puffed into city hall this morning, knocking three minutes off Tuesday's hiking time from his hotel.

It took him 45 minutes to cover the 3½ miles, trailed by panting newsmen.

First Steps to Stock Profits:

Investigating an Investment: What to Seek, Where to Find It

By ROLAND GOODMAN
Moody's Investors Service
Distributed by
NEA Special Services

Financial writers, including this one, agree heartily with the Wall Street slogan, "Before you invest, investigate." Yet no advice is likely to be more bewildering than this to the stock-market novice. What is he to investigate? And how will he know the meaning of what he has learned?

Actually, what the responsible voices of Wall Street are saying is that investment in stocks deserves as much careful attention as anything else on which a person stakes a considerable sum of money. It does the market's reputation no good when a green hand loses a year's savings on a hot but blind tip.

First, then, learn some facts about the business, history and profits of any company before you buy its stock. The Red Book Investor's Guide to Stocks and Bonds has price and dividend data, and other information can be found in any broker's office and many public libraries, in the big volumes of reference material by Moody's.

Understanding the facts is much more of a chore. This series of articles can only skim the surface of a subject to which whole college courses are devoted. There is quite an array of sane books for beginners, however, and many of them are excellent. At minimum, you can learn the vocabulary and basic concepts of investment, so that you can comprehend the specialized language of your broker or adviser.

The study of investment fact and theory can be never-ending. The rise and fall of stock prices is a distillation of the impact of many economic forces, of the performance of individual companies, and the hopes and fears of millions of investors. No one can completely master this complex pattern. But the more you read, the more you observe, the more you invest, the closer you will be to understanding the stock market.

Details Are Due Jan. 18

Governor Holds Out Hope for School Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller held out today the prospect of increased state aid to public schools but did not indicate how extensive a boost he had in mind.

Proposals Later

He said in his annual message to the opening session of the Legislature that he would submit later proposals for improving the system under which the state bears a "fair share of ever-increasing school costs."

The emphasis, he said, would be on "educational quality and opportunity for all."

The Legislature is committed, under existing law, to a $145-million increase in aid to public schools. The governor was talking about increases beyond that amount.

Details are expected in his new budget, due Jan. 18. The governor said earlier he saw almost no prospect of a major increase in education aid—ranging from $75 million to $100 million a year—being sought by some educators.

Rockefeller told the lawmakers that his education program this year also included plans for:

—Contracting with private colleges and universities to provide certain specific educational opportunities which they can supply." The Board of Regents has asked for $500,000 in the new budget to begin such a program, long sought by private schools.

—Establishing centers to help prepare for school pre-kindergarten children who are not adequately prepared at home. The governor vetoed a pre-kindergarten proposal last year because the Legislature provided no funds to finance it.

Other Plans

—Establishing four experimental, two-year technical colleges within the State University for young people who are unable to attend four-year institutions or community colleges.

—Establishing regional school districts to operate centers for specialized educational services. Such districts would be known as "Area Centers of Cooperative Educational Services." The governo vetoed a similar bill last year because it was amended to require individual school districts within the proposed area centers to offer the courses envisioned for the centers alone.

—Expanding and improving the state's manpower training programs. These programs prepare prospective jobholders for their future work and re-train workers who have lost their jobs through automation.

Ask $232 Million More

Rockefeller has received from the State Education Department a request for $1.5 billion in the new state budget—an increase of $232 million over the current year.

In addition, the State University is seeking $244.6 million in the new budget—an increase of $55.6 million.

The largest request is for the $145 million to raise state aid to elementary and high schools under existing formulas pegged to an annual cost of $600 per pupil. On top of that, the board is seeking another $37 million to increase the per-pupil expenditure to $660.

The plan to allocate funds to public and private colleges for development of programs could be the first step in a major program of state aid to private institutions

His reference to "educational quality and opportunity for all" in discussing state aid, raised hopes in the Education Department that he would go along with the Regents request for $5 million to help school districts meet the added costs of eliminating racial imbalance.

Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr., and the board have declared that pupils in racially imbalanced schools do not receive the same educational opportunity as those who attend schools where white and Negro populations are better balanced.

The pre-kindergarten plan would allow school boards to operate special classes for slum-area children.

The plan is based on the belief that a "culturally deprived" child who reaches kindergarten without sufficient preparation eventually drops out of school.

Oswald: "Have you ever seen anything like the number of new ideas in bidding that the two Bobs have produced?"

Jim: "No, I haven't! I don't think that we are ever going to be ready for most of them but there are a couple that concern themselves with preemptive bids that merit a lot of study."

Oswald: "I rather think that we will adopt something like their minor suit preempts for our own use. It seems silly to try to disturb your opponents with a minor-suit bid of three and a hopeless hand, but they suggest that the three-club and three-diamond bids be used to show a nearly solid suit, 10 to 14 high-card points and six to seven-and-a-half playing tricks."

Jim: "Today's hand illustrates this bid at its best. North has a minimum three-club bid under the Nail-Stucker system. South is interested in a no-trump game if he can find his partner with a spade stopper and responds three diamonds. North shows his spade control and South goes to three no-trump.

NO INVITATION NECESSARY TO PAY NEWLYWEDS A VISIT

Q: My husband's niece was married six weeks ago. Upon their return from their honeymoon, they moved into their own home. I would like to know if we may pay them a visit or must we wait to be invited? Also, when we do visit them, must I take a gift for their new house? We did give them a check for a wedding present.

A: You do not have to be invited to pay a visit on your husband's niece. However, before going to see them, you should telephone first to ask if she is settled and ready to receive visitors. You need not take a gift for their house.

Inviting Husband's Employers To Anniversary Party

Q: In a short while my husband and I will celebrate our silver wedding anniversary. We plan on giving a dinner party for about 75 people. The guests will be our closest relatives and dearest friends. My husband would like to invite his two bosses and their wives. I never met these men personally and neither of us know their wives. I don't think it would be right to invite them to this party. What are your feelings on the matter?

A: I agree with you and think they would feel uncomfortable and out of place at a party at which they would be complete strangers to the other guests.

Fifteen-Year-Old in Tuxedo

Q: My niece is being married shortly and the wedding invitations specify "Black Tie." I would like to know if it will be necessary for my 15-year-old son to wear a tuxedo or will a dark blue suit be satisfactory?

A: At 15, it will not be necessary for him to wear a tuxedo. A dark blue suit will be entirely proper.

Details concerning the announcement of an engagement are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Announcing the Engagement." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Still Not Enough

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Methodist Church Board of Education says Methodists are giving more money for higher education but that rising costs make increased church support essential.

The report says current support is inadequate "in this day of unprecedented demands and rising costs" even though Methodists give more money to education than to any other effort. The report said church members gave more than $18.3 million to education.

Carol Louise Brown Of Lake Katrine Prospective Bride

(Photo Workshop)

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown of Lake Katrine, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter Carol Louise, to Francis J. Besaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington F. Besaw of Malone, N. Y.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. M. Brown of Highland, N. Y., and the late Baron Brown. Her fiance is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Carroll Sr., of Wiltwyck Gardens, this city.

Heirlooms Exhibited At DAR Meeting

Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its first meeting of the new year on Monday, Jan. 3 in the Chapter House. Dessert and coffee were served from 7 to 7:30 by hostesses, the Mmes. Raymond Craft and Adam H. Porter, followed by the business session, Mrs. R. R. Empringham, Regent, presiding.

Letters were read from the Tamassee DAR School thanking Wiltwyck Chapter for its half-scholarship and gifts including shoes for its sponsored child Betty Foster. Included was a description of Christmas at the school.

Mrs. Harry J. Rigby Jr. reported on the Historic Tours conducted during the past summer and asked for participation by members in this work along with other organizations in 1966. Students in American History classes have indicated desires to make these tours.

Elected to attend the 75th Diamond Jubilee Continental Congress in Washington April 18-22, were Mrs. R. R. Empringham, Regent, Mrs. Adam H. Porter, delegate, the Mmes. Gertrude Kerth, William Ochs, Charles Campbell, Hollis Burhans, alternates.

The program was presented by the chairman of the American Heritage Committee, Mrs. George F. Dingee, who read a paper on handicraft in early colonial days and displayed articles in crewel work, needlepoint, beaded bags, knitting, quilting, spinning, samplers and hooked rugs. Also shown were family heirlooms belonging to members. A Friendship quilt belonging to Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth contained the names handwritten on the blocks of contemporaries of her grandmother.

This committee was organized by Contintental Congress 1963 to preserve for present and future generations early work in arts, crafts, drama, literature and music.

Dear Abby . . .

She Was Roped In!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago my neighbor asked if she could hang a few sheets on my clothesline. I said all right. Then she started hanging all sorts of colored garments, rugs, blankets, etc., on my line. She will not put up a clothesline in HER yard because she doesn't want it cluttered. Occasionally, I didn't mind, but now it has become an everyday occurrence. I don't want to take down my line because I need it for my own use. She's added two lines of her own to my pole so now she feels that she can use HER lines any time I am very much upset over this. It's caused many family arguments because my husband will not tell them it's annoying. We don't want hard feelings. Please tell me how to discourage this practice?

HAVE HAD IT

DEAR HAVE HAD IT: Remind your neighbor that she asked premission to hang a "few sheets" on your line, and you think she's gone a bit too far. Face it. You are really upset with yourself for lacking the backbone to set your neighbor straight. Don't blame your husband for refusing to run interference for you. That's not HIS line!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I shouldn't complain because my fiance says he loves me a lot and I know he never even looks at another girl, but here's my problem. Now that deer hunting season is here he says he'll see me after the season is over. He is so crazy about hunting, he goes every minute he has off from work. Abby, everyone says I'm a fool to wait for him to come to see me when he feels like it. I think if he really cared for me he'd see me on week-ends during the deer season, don't you? Should I tell him he can either find time for me or he can find someone else?

SECOND CHOICE

DEAR SECOND: If you're sure the only kind of deer your fiance is interested in is the four-legged kind, you're lucky. Don't challenge him to find another "dear" unless you want to go hunting for a new boy friend.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent article, you said the boy's mother should set up restrictions in the absence of the girl's mother doing so. We had the same situation a few years ago. Our son, at 17, was going steady with an 18-year-old girl. He, too, practically "lived" at her house. We tried everything we could think of to keep them from seeing so much of each other. We talked to our son. We limited the use of our car. But the girl used her mother's car, so that didn't work. In desperation I phoned the girl's mother and begged her not let our son come over so much. I told her he had a lot of school left and would be in no position to marry for several years. All to no avail. The girl's mother said they were "good kids," she "trusted" them, and they were "in love."

Well, a few months after our son turned 18 he informed us that the girl was pregnant. Our son is now 20. His education is finished as he had to get a job at 18 to support a family. They have two children now and they are miserable. His wife is a sloppy housekeeper. The only time the floor gets scrubbed is when he does it. He has to take care of the babies when he gets home from work at night. She complains that there isn't enough money and they don't have a decent car, etc. I blame early dating, going steady, AND the girl's parents.

GRIEVING MOTHER

Norweigian Couple Married 80 Years; Have Eight Children

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Well-wishing relatives, congratulatory cards and letters by the hundreds pour into the Ole Sholberg home today for the couple's 80th wedding anniversary.

Sholberg is 103. His wife, Otila, is 101. They emigrated from Norway when they were children.

It was Jan. 5, 1886, when they married, at the farm home of Otila's parents, the John Hills. They farmed for years, and Ole did carpentering and grain threshing. When he was 80, Ole built a house in town and retired.

For their anniversary, the Sholbergs' eight children were at home. They ranged in age from Oscar, 58, of Fergus Falls, to Julius, 77, of Elizabeth, Minn.

Succeeding generations were represented, too. The Sholbergs have 20 grandchildren. One granddaughter, Mrs. Harold Bailey, came all the way from Yakima, Wash.

Ole has poor vision and hearing, and spends most of his time in bed. Otila is up and around more than Ole but must hold onto something when she walks about the house.

To prevent the old couple from getting too tired, plans for today were kept simple.

The highlight was to be a big family supper tonight featuring Norwegian foods.

More than 123 cards were received Tuesday. President Johnson was among those sending congratulations. Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, also of Norwegian descent, sent a telegram.

Otila said her husband "is a good man. We have had a happy life."

ORANGE-DATE BREAD

Frozen Fruit Juice Is Surprise Ingredient

Almost everyone counts on those convenient cans of frozen fruit juice concentrate to provide a breakfast beverage or between-meal refresher. But, many people still do not realize the tang and fresh excitement they can contribute to a tremendous variety of familiar foods.

In many recipes, the concentrated juice enables otherwise impossible, concentrated fresh-fruit flavor without the addition of unwanted liquid. For example, it can be: combined with brown sugar and spices to provide a glaze for meats and vegetables; heated with butter and maple syrup for a pancake and waffle topping; blended with confectioners' sugar to make an icing for cakes and sweet breads.

Frequently, when a recipe calls for a liquid such as milk or water, frozen fruit juice can be substituted for all or part of the liquid. A typical example is the following Orange-Date Bread, a versatile bread which keeps well for weeks when protected by a foil or plastic wrap. Sliced thinly and spread lightly with butter or cream cheese, it provides an excellent breakfast, luncheon or tea-time bread.

Orange-Date Bread

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
Water
3 tablespoons corn oil or melted butter
2 eggs
1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
¾ cup pitted, chopped dates

Sift flour with baking powder, baking soda, salt and sugar. To orange juice concentrate, add enough water to make ¾ cup. Add juice, corn oil or butter, eggs, nuts and dates to dry ingredients. Stir until all dry particles are moistened and well blended. Pour mixture into a well-greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 to 1-¼ hours, or until top is well browned. Unmold and cool on a rack. Cool thoroughly before slicing. This bread will keep for weeks if wrapped tightly with foil or plastic wrap between servings.

Makes 1 9x5x3-inch loaf.

Another example of a familiar food that is given new interest through the use of frozen orange juice is this recipe for Tangy Orange Rice, a particularly excellent accompaniment for duckling, ham and chicken.

Tangy Orange Rice

¼ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup finely diced celery with green leaves
2 tablespoons fine chopped onion
1½ cups water
1 cup reconstituted frozen orange juice concentrate
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon crumbled thyme
1 cup uncooked regular rice

Melt butter in saucepan; add celery and onion and cook until tender but not brown. Add water, orange juice, salt and thyme. Bring to boil; add rice and stir once. Cover and cook over low heat, 25 minutes, or until tender.

Makes 6 servings.

Will party in red car who so kindly assisted me after fall at Washington Avenue Car Wash on December 21, 1965, contact me by addressing communication to Uptown P.O. Box 311.

Onteora Scores 62-52 Non-League Victory Over Ellenville

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

The Kingston Woman's Bowling Association rounds out its first quarter century with a dinner-dance on Feb. 19 at Brattan's. This should be an SRO event without question.

The co-chairmen of the silver jubilee committee — Martha Petersen and Dot Dousharm — promise an outstanding affair. The KWBA is one of the oldest in the mid-Hudson area, has done an excellent job propagating the distaff side of bowling.

We understand the association's planning a special feature for the occasion and if it's what we think it is, a kudo to them. It is long overdue.

• About a Pioneer:

Many hands have contributed to the continued success of the KWBA, but in any organization you always remember the pioneer. In this case it was Evelyn Dolson, who was the best woman bowler of that early period.

Miss Dolson, Reta Frederick and Nell Glennon have been outstanding presidents down through the years. There have been many others whose deeds and thinking shaped the progress of the KWBA. Just to name a few: Rose Schatzel, Cora Emerick, Elsie Kubicek, Adelaide Gilbert, Marge Jansen, Jo Smith, Helen Broskie, Ardis Miller, Chris Wilson, Charlotte Merritt, Dot Rawding, Dot Flemings, Tess Moss, Betty Egan and perhaps some we have missed. All these persons deserve recognition for their efforts in the first quarter century of KWBA.

• 300 and Nobody Sees It:

How would you like to roll 300 without a witness in sight. It happened to Jimmy Amato, the x-patrolman turned gas station operator? Cousin Jim put 12 strikes in a row together at Sangi's Bowlero one afternoon — all by his lonesome. What worries him: Will anyone really believe him? . . . Marty Hammer's 641 series in the Father-Son League had a little of everything hard to get — 30 closed frames and a Dutch "200" . . . Max Kappler also has a 30-framer en route to a 658 in the Good Neighbor league . . . Vic Tresvik's 648 was new high triple in the Kingston Booster. Kudos to Vic Nerone for 267 and Anita Kelder 513, a career first.

• Doing It the Hard Way:

Nobody ever worked any harder than Pat Gromoll for a career-first "400" series. A 106-average bowler, she had to convert five difficult splits to reach that plateau . . . Even Rich Michaelis does it: 137-199-214 . . . Jim Rose had all strikes (11) and one split for a 266 in the Woodstock Major . . . Nice bombing: John Schatzel 662 and Judy Helsley 582 in Quads . . . Pat Purhamus' 204 and 513 new high marks in Rotron Pioneer Women's league . . . All career first 600's in the KWBA should be reported to June Van Kleeck, Parkcrest Estates, Rosendale . . . Tournament dates: New York State, March 11-May 29 in Binghamton . . . KWBA annuals — March 5-6, 12-13, 19-20 at Mid-City Lanes in Kingston. Entry blanks now available.

• Petersen on Sunday TV:

Herb Petersen makes his national TV debut on NBC Sunday at 3 p. m. against Joe Mack of Dover, N.J. A consistent 200 average bowler, the 20-year-old Mack is a member of the Professional Bowlers Association. He placed second in the 1965 New Jersey State Match Game Championship and was "in the money" for several PBA events. He is also a professional singer. Each week the winner receives $750 and the loser $250. Bob Murphy of the New York Mets radio-TV team will do the commentary. The winner stays on stage until beaten in the 11-week series.

• Dutchess Leads Area:

Dutchess-Putnam Bowling Association is the largest in the mid-Hudson area, with a 1964-65 ABC registration of 192 leagues and 1980 teams. Newburgh was second with 124-1412. Kingston had 71 leagues and 715 sanctioned teams; Middletown, 77 leagues, 897 teams; Catskill Mountains, 29-282; Saugerties, 27-239 . . . New York City, naturally, largest in state — 3,070 leagues and 34,135 teams . . . Buffalo, second, 1,090-11,227 . . . Newburgh Association had two of top five doubles score in nation last season — Jim Torelli and Bob Quinn, 1489, and Joe Shier-George Clairamonte, 1480. A 544 team game by Torelli and Quinn was among the highest . . . National individual leader was Jim Schroeder, Ottawa, Ohio, who also bombed the all-time high triplicate, 279-279-279-837. Jake Charter of Poughkeepsie almost matched it with 278-277-279-834.

Providence, Vanderbilt

Second Half Rallies Save Ranking Cagers

By HAL BOCK

College basketball games run 40 minutes and that's about 20 too many for Brown and Tulane.

Two lightly regarded teams, the Bruins and Green Wave had upsets on their minds Tuesday night. Brown had sixth- ranked Providence on the ropes and Tulane had No. 3 Vanderbilt in trouble at halftime although you'd never know it by the final scores.

The Friars whipped Brown 66-48 after trailing 28-27 at intermission. Vanderbilt came alive with a 14-0 string at the start of the second half that wiped out a 36-34 Tulane lead and started the Commodores to a 91-69 Southeastern Conference victory.

Brown's controlled offense and tenacious defense had Providence struggling. The visiting Bruins held highly touted Jim Walker without a field goal in the first half. But Providence, which had been averaging 86 points per game, scored nine straight opening the second half and broke away.

Walker, who scored 50 in the Friars' championship victory last week in New York's Holiday Festival, wound up with 15, hitting only five for 19 from the floor. Bill Blair led the Friars with 20.

Vanderbilt, playing at home, switched to a zone defense that threw Tulane off in the second half. The Commodores had four men in double figures with Clyde Lee's 22 high.

The victory ran Vanderbilt's record to 11-1. Tulane is 3-6.

Texas Tech broke a Southwest Conference record and North Dakota struck a blow for the small colleges in other games Tuesday.

The Red Raiders routed Baylor 115-77 at Lubbock in the league opener for both teams. Sophomore Bob Glover led Tech with 26 points and 21 rebounds as five men hit double figures.

North Dakota, which had lost to majors Minnesota and Bradley for its only setbacks this season, downed DePaul 85-74. The Sioux, fifth-ranked in The Associated Press small-college poll, got 30 points from 6-8 Phil Jackson and handed the visiting Blue Demons their second loss in 12 starts. Massachusetts Institute of Technology edged Harvard 86-84 for its first victory over the Crimson in 22 years.

Sophomore Stuart Lantz scored five points in the last 90 seconds as Nebraska shaded Iowa State 76-74 in a Big Eight Conference game at Ames, Iowa.

Texas A&M got 25 points from John Beasley and 19 from Terry Trippet and overcame Southern Methodist's hot shooting for an 85-78 Southwest Conference victory over the Mustangs at College Station. SMU shot 57 per cent from the floor and led most of the way before the Aggies took control with seven minutes to play.

Third Period Decides Tilt; Marlboro Next

Onteora Central scored 23 points in a third period blitz and held visiting Ellenville to a pair of goals and a foul shot to record a 62-52 non-league cage decision Tuesday afternoon at the Boiceville gym.

Coach Wes Kissel's quintet, warming up for a pivotal UCAL clash Friday against Marlboro, had only a 30-25 lead at halftime but broke things open with the hot third session.

The starting five turned in good performances and John Mower came off the bench to score six points in a reserve role. Charles Moore and Fred Pettinato were top scorers with 15 points each. Kissel emptied the bench in the last period.

Onteora has a 6-1 mark, the only loss being by a point, 66-65, to New Paltz. Marlboro, which invades the OCS gym on Friday, has won its first nine. It figures to be a good tussle.

Pro Teams Now Show Interest In Steve Sloan

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Alabama quarterback Steve Sloan, virtually ignored in the professional football leagues' big-money drafts, now has at least three clubs clamoring for his services.

A record-shattering performance as he led the Crimson Tide to a 39-28 victory over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl — and the national championship, put Sloan in the position of being able to demand a husky bonus.

The 6-foot, 185-pound senior from Cleveland, Tenn., was selected in the 12th round of the National Football League draft by the new Atlanta Falcons. But the American Football League clubs completely ignored him.

However, that is all changed now. And Sloan, who said his boyhood ambition was to be a policeman, is listening to offers from the Falcons and at least two AFL teams that apparently would assure his security for many years.

Sloan is in Mobile for the Senior Bowl game, but he has yet to work out with the South squad due to severely bruised ribs suffered in the New Year's night game.

"I won't make any decision until after the Senior Bowl," Sloan said concerning his pro plans. "I'm in no hurry."

Atlanta announced Monday that Alabama teammate Tommy Tolleson had come to terms with the NFL team.

"I think that's just great," said Sloan. He inquired as to the unrevealed terms of Tolleson's contract, but gave no indication whether the signing of Tolleson (who was one of his favorite targets at Alabama) would influence his decision.

One of the AFL teams dickering with Sloan is the New York Jets, whose coach, Weeb Ewbank, is coaching the South All-Stars.

If Sloan should decide to go with the Jets, he would be faced with unseating the same Joe Namath who set most of the passing records Sloan broke at Alabama this year.

Monbouquette Inks Tiger Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Pitcher Bill Monbouquette, formerly of the Boston Red Sox, signed his contract with the Detroit Tigers today.

The Tigers, who acquired Monbouquette from the Red Sox in a three-player deal after the end of the American League season last year, did not disclose the terms for the veteran right-hander.

Detroit also announced the signing of veteran second baseman Jerry Lumpe, infielder Dick Tracewski and outfielder Jim Northrup, bringing to 11 the number of players now under contract for 1966.

Monbouquette, mainstay of the Boston pitching staff, was acquired by Detroit in exchange for outfielder George Thomas and infield George Smith.

The Tigers figure on 29-year-old Monbouquette as a regular starter. He has a 96-91 lifetime record in the American League.

Spartan Pools Win, 112-82; Hub No. 1 Upsets Armstrong's

High scoring Spartan Pools rebounded from a 44-42 halftime deficit to score 70 points in the second half and wallop Stone Ridge, 112-82, in a YMCA league game last night at the local court.

In the other contest, Hub Delicatessen #1 upset Armstrong's, 80-62, to throw the division race into a three-way tie between Hub, Armstrong's and Spartan Pool.

Six of the seven who saw action for Spartan Pool were in double figures. Ray Lucas showed the way with 30 points. Jim Massa had 31 and Cliff Schoonmaker 29 for the losers.

Don Kamosa and Chick Boice combined for 50 points as Hub stopped Armstrong's. Sam Brown led the losers with 26 markers.

Ty Quill Hurt

Beacon Wins, 84-81, Over Newburgh Five

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Playing the entire game without high scoring Gary McCray (suspended) and all but four minutes without backcourt ace Ty Quill (injured), the unbeaten Beacon Bulldogs overcame Newburgh Free Academy, 84-81, in a non-league thriller last night at the Southern Dutchess court.

In extending their streak to seven straight and handing the defending DUSO champions their initial setback of the season, the Bulldogs won this one on sheer desire and hustle plus a 36-point performance from sophomore Nate Milligan.

Hurt Ankle

Quill, who generally perculates the club with his adroit passing and shooting, was injured when he fell on his ankle. It was a 16-11 game in favor of Beacon and it was midway through the first quarter. Ty already had posted seven points. He didn't return to the lineup.

To compound matters, Steve Quill picked up four fouls and didn't score a point. But, Milligan responded with his 36, getting 14 of 21 from the floor. Art Elmore added 15 and Lou Jackson had 13.

Newburgh, which had a decided height advantage over the home side, battled fro start to finish. The Goldbacks overcame a six-point deficit in the final period, moved ahead by a basket and then faded once again as the tencious Buldogs stole the basketball more than once and went in for the bucket.

Jump-shooting Abe Frazier tallied 23 points for the winners. Paul Greenblatt had 17 and most of them came in the pressurized second half. Reserve Steve Gruberg potted 18 points.

It was a great show and the capacity crowd of 400, jammed into every available space at the Beacon court, loved it.

Wilt Slips But Greer Does It

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wilt Chamberlain was poorer than usual from the foul line, Hal Greer was better than usual from the field, and the Philadelphia 76ers were just good enough to win.

Chamberlain couldnt find the range on his free throws — only three of 15 — and Greer had the range from everywhere — 14 of 15 from the field and eight of nine from the foul line — as the 76ers edged New York 129-127 in the nightcap of a National Basketball Association doubleheader Tuesday night.

San Francisco beat Baltimore 122-111 in the first game at New York's Madison Square Garden. There was no other league action.

Although Chamberlain, a notoriously poor foul shooter, failed to break the game wide open because of his performance from the charity line, he came up with 27 points, several of them in the clutch.

New Haven Seeks ACFL Franchise

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — New Haven Football, Inc., has announced plans to take over a franchise of the Atlantic Coast Football League.

Manager Milton Rosner said the New Haven team would play in the 10,000-seat Quigley Stadium in West Haven. He said the search for a coach has been narrowed to two candidates with a decision to be made later.

New England entries in the financially troubled ACFL last season were league champion New Bedford, Boston and Holyoke.

It's Crimson Ribbon

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Crimson Ribbon wrapped up the $2,200 conditioned pace at Roosevelt Raceway Tuesday night as he beat String Tocon by 1¼ lengths.

The 4-year-old gelding, clocked in 2:07, returned $8.20 in his seasonal debut at the track.

Senator Rocket was third.

Change for Better

Jack Nicklaus made his professional golf debut in the 1962 Los Angeles Open. He won $33.34.

All-State Again

Ventriglia Receives All-America Mention

Eugene Ventrigilia, who led the State University College of New Paltz to the Conference and NCAA Soccer titles, has been selected for Honorable Mention on the 1965 Collegiate All-America team.

In addition, the New Paltz star has been named for the third year to the All-Conference team and to the All-State squad.

Ventriglia and Coach Al Miller will be feted at the annual All-America Awards luncheon Saturday in New York. The fete will be hosted by the National Soccer Coaches Assn.

Others Are Honored

In addition to Ventriglia, New Paltz placed Joe Facciolli, Solomen Iyasere and Richard Lotze on the All-Conference team. The Hawks captured the championship for the first time in the history of the school.

Ventriglia scored 30 goals this past season, a school record. He has a total of 61 for his varsity career including five in one game.

This is his second selection for All-America honors, having been picked in 1963. He has made All-Conference and All-State for three years.

In the NCAA Atlantic Coast tournament, he scored five of his team's seven goals and won "Most Valuable Player" honors. His fiifth goal of the two-day tourney came with five seconds left and gave New Paltz the title.

In addition to his athletic feats, Ventriglia is also an excellent student. He has been a regular on the Dean's List and has never received below an "A" grade in his major subjects.

A major in Language, Ventriglia will graduate from New Paltz next December after the 1966 soccer season.

Leading Golfers Set for Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The professional golfing wars start anew today for 1966 with a pro-amateur prelude to the $70,000 Los Angeles Open.

This is the 40th annual Los Angeles fixture which kicks off the tournament winter campaign each year, and with several notable exceptions, the nation's leading shotmakers are on hand.

Today's exercise carries an additional $5,000 loot to be split by the pros.

Prominent in the picture is Paul Harney, the surprise winner of the last two tournaments here, and the challenging names of Bill Casper Jr., Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema and other name stars.

Palmer has registered but one tournament triumph in the past 18 months. It came in the 1965 Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas.

Missing from the tournament, however, are Gary Player of South Africa, the 1965 U.S. Open champion, and the fearsome Jack Nicklaus, last year's leading money winner who makes a point of skipping this event each winter.

The setting is the same as it has been for the past 10 years, the Rancho Municipal Golf Course, some 7,000 yards in length, with par 36-35—71.

Harney, who plays relatively few major tournaments these years, won the Los Angeles in 1965 with rounds of 68-71-68-69—276. The winning purse is again $12,000.

The Los Angeles Open ordinarily started on a Friday and ended its 72-hole test on a Monday. But the format was changed this year to take advantage of added television revenue for the sponsoring Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, ending Sunday.

Forty of the top 50 PGA money winners were entered, including such tournament pros as Art Wall Jr., Gene Littler, Julius Boros, Tommy Bolt, Bo Wininger, Mike Souchak, Mason Rudolph and Doug Sanders.

If a bowler does not have an average of 60 games or more in the 1964-65 season, highest average as of Jan 31, 1966, based on a minimum of 39 games for the 65-66 season may be used.

Ten-Point Rule

Any bowler whose highest current average is ten (10) points or more above his final average for 1964-65 season must use his highest current average as of Jan. 31, 1966, based on a minimum of 39 games.

Handicap in the team event will be 100 per cent off 1000 scratch for men, with a 225 pin maximum. In doubles and singles it will be 100 per cent off 200 scratch, maximum 45 pins per game.

Women's scratch figure is 900, with 225 pin maximum per game in the team event. In doubles and singles, it will be 100 per cent off 180, maximum 45 pins per game.

Any bowler who won $200 or more in tournaments during the 1964-65 or 1965-66 season must designate amount won on the entry form. Failure to do so subjects bowler to possible disqualification.

The tournament is sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress and Woman's International Bowling Congress.

The mailing address for entries and information is: John Ferraro, Tournament Manager, East Chester Street By-Pass, Kingston, N. Y., 12401.

Woman's Skating Champ Murdered

MOSCOW (AP) — Inga Voronina, the women's world speedskating champion, has died a "tragic death," Tass reported today.

The Tass Sports Department gave this answer when asked about a report that the 29-year-old Soviet skating star had been found stabbed to death in her apartment.

A sports editor confirmed that the death occurred Tuesday but refused to give any other details.

Mrs. Voronina, of Moscow, won the women's world speedskating championship in 1957, 1958, 1962 and 1965. She was married to a skater, Gennady Voronina.

Winter Win

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Thad Tillotson of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Cleveland's George Culver checked league-leading Mayaguez on four hits and Sam Parrilla cracked a two-run homer, giving Arecibo a 2-0 Winter League baseball victory over the Indians Tuesday night.

Marlboro Wins 9th Straight

Number nine proved to be one of the easiest of the season for the high flying Marlboro Dukes as they breezed to a 79-43 non-league decision last night over visiting Chester.

In soaring to the verdict, coach Jack O'Donnell's quintet led by 15 points, 35-20, at halftime and just coasted. Neil Fino's 22 points topped the UCAL co-leaders but the others chipped in.

Chester won a close jayvee contest, 34-32.

Eviction Notice May Soon Go Up For Cage Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Los Angeles Laker owner Jack Kent Cooke has about 24 hours "to fish or cut bait," says a county supervisor, or his Lakers may be without a home court Jan. 15.

The Lakers have been using the 15,100-seat Sports Arena, under a contract Cooke took over last summer when he purchased the National Basketball Association team for $5 million-plus.

The contract has two years to run, if Cooke agrees to pay the rent.

As the county's Coliseum Commission prepared to take up the matter today at its monthly meeting, Cooke kept silent on his intentions.

Bill Nicholas, general manager of the Sports Arena, says the pin-stripe suited Laker owner wants to stop putting $50,000 a year into a player procurement fund and negotiate a new 10-year pact.

"The commission has not been about to give it to him," Nicholas said, referring to the many demands for conventions and exhibitions on the near - downtown arena.

Supervisor Ernest Debs, chairman of the commission's finance committee, insisted Cooke must agree to accept the pact signed by his predecessor, Robert Short, or "on Jan. 15 he has no contract at the Sports Arena."

Where would the Lakers go if they were turned out of the Sports Arena? Commission sources say Cooke is considering: (1) building his own arena, (2) playing the games in Dodger Stadium, or (3) moving the Lakers to another arena.

Czechs Win

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Czechoslovakia's big, smooth-passing national hockey team fired a barrage at Denver University's goal and came away with a 7-3 victory Monday night in an exhibition game in the Denver U. Arena.

Changes Mind

DETROIT (AP) — Billy Harris, suspended for refusing to report to the Detroit Red Wings' Pittsburgh farm club, changed his mind Monday and will join the Hornets Wednesday, the Wings reported.

ON WINTER TRAIL: Golf professional Richard (Dick) Howell, professional at Holiday Lakes Country Club, left, will compete in 12 PGA winter tournaments. He is currently in Los Angeles for the Open which launches the annual golf caravan. With Howell is his sponsor, Allen Lonstein, an Ellenville insurance man.

Five Army Athletic Teams Face Major Test Saturday

WEST POINT — Crucial tests face five Army athletic teams this Saturday as they meet intercollegiate foes here.

Swimming takes the afternoon spotlight as Yale, the top team in eastern circles, comes to the Army pool at 3:15 p. m. The Eli, the only team to beat Army the past two seasons, have won their last 42 dual matches and will be favored in this one. The Cadets have shown power this winter, however, with victories over Harvard, Columbia and North Carolina, and could well score the upset.

When Manhattan and Army get together in track, it is always a close affair. The Jaspers will be opening their season at 1:30 p. m. in the West Point Field House. The visitors boast power in the high jump, middle distance, relays and the weights. Army counters with similar power, promising a meet which will probably be decided in the relays. High jumpers Ed Mulvehill and Del Benjamin of Manhattan will face Army's Karl Kramer in a battle which should see all three at 6-6 or better.

Hockey Record 7-1

Hockey continues its quest for eastern honors with an 8 p. m. game with Brown University at Smith Rink. The Cadets finished 1965 with a 7-1 record, while Brown currently has a 6-3 mark. Coach Jack Riley's Army team has been improving each week, and could produce some upsets before the season is finished.

Princeton, considered second best only to national champion Harvard in college squash play, meets the Cadet team at 2 p. m. in the West Gym. The Cadets, rebuilding this year, beat Wesleyan in the opener, but dropped their second meet to Harvard.

Last year only St. John's defeated Army in college rifle competition. The Cadets are hoping to even that score in a triangular match at 1:30 p. m. on the Cadet Range CCNY is the third team in this firing. Army beat Yale Rifle Club, then lost to West Virginia in matches to date.

Schatzel's 171 Average Leading Quads Bowlers

Rose Schatzel's 171.39 average and Franz-Rambler Sales' 33-18 record led Bowlerama Quads bowlers at the end of first half play.

Mrs. Schatzel holds a 17-pin margin over runnerup Anna Manfro (171.22). Ramblers' edge over Ferraro's Bowlerama was a bare half game.

Quebec No Place For Visiting Hockey Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quebec is a nice pace to visit — unless you're a visiting American Hockey League goaltender.

Cleveland's Les Binkley stopped 38 Quebec shots Tuesday night in only AHL game scheduled but the red-hot Aces edged the Barons 2-1—boosting their home ice record to 13-2-2 and increasing their Eastern Division bulge over runner-up Hershey to 17 points.

The Aces, who have won five of their last six, came from behind on second period goals by Simon Nolet and Terry Gray. Gray broke a 1-1 deadlock with under two minutes remaining in the period and Cleveland's Larry Zeidel in the penalty box.

Bob Ellett shot the Barons in front in the opening period on passes from Dick Mattiussi and Bob Courcy, the league's No. 1 playmaker.

AHL scoring leader Gordon Labossiere and defenseman Noel Price set up Nolet's tying goal midway in the second period. Rookie goalie Gary Bauman, who made 25 saves, blanked the Barons over the final 47 minutes.

Moccasin, Priceless Gem Top 3-Year Old Filly Threats

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, retired patriarch of horse trainers, has always contended there were 1,000 ways to lose a race. If you doubt him, he will enumerate.

Other trainers know Mr. Fitz was right. That's why such prominent conditioners of thoroughbreds as Eddie Neloy, Lloyd Gentry, Harry Trotsek and Hirsch Jacobs are walking around these days with good luck charms in their pockets and their fingers crossed.

After a year in which injuries and illness plagued every division, trainers and racing officials are predicting hot contests this year for at least three titles —3-year-old colt, 3-year-old filly and handicap.

The glamor division, as usual, is the 3-year-olds. Only this year there are two fillies who threaten to upstage a pair of highly regarded colts.

The fillies are Moccasin, unbeaten in eight starts and voted 1965 Horse of the Year by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations, and the fleet Priceless Gem. The colts are two rangy animals - Buckpasser and Graustark.

Buckpasser was the champion 2-year-old of 1965 and hung up a money-winning record for juveniles with earnings of $568,096. He is trained by Neloy for Ogden Phipps.

Graustark, handled by Gentry for John Galbreath, never was extended in three races before being sidelined with bucked shins. He's in Florida with his first likely major start the Hibiscus on Jan. 22 at Hialeah Park.

Graustark and Buckpasser might have their first lead-on clash in the Everglades Feb. 23.

Like Buckpasser and Graustark, Moccasin and Priceless Gem never have met and they'll likely not get together until late spring.

Looking for a standout in the handicap division, one must start with 9-year-old Kelso, who is within $22,000 of his money-winning goal of $2 million. The Grand Old Man of the thoroughbreds was just starting a belated bid for a sixth straight Horse of the Year title last fall when an injured eye forced him to the sidelines.

Lucky Debonair, winner of the 1965 Kentucky Derby, is back in action after a long convalescence. Hail to All, rated second to Tom Rolfe as the best 3-year-old of 1965, will be back as will Roman Brother, the TRA's handicap champion last year.

North Stars Have Massive Foursome

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — When South backs get through running against the North line in Saturday's 17th annual Senior Bowl game, they may wish they had not tried it.

The big four who have stepped forward as leading contenders for starting defensive line positions for the North average more than 243 pounds per man.

The baby of the bunch is 240-pound Gale Gillingham of Minnesota. The biggest is 248-pound Charley Harper of Oklahoma State. And in between come Indiana's 242-pound Randy Beisler and Idaho's 245-pound Joe Dobson.

Linebackers making big defensive sounds with the Yanks so far are Dick Leftridge, a 235-pound fullback from West Virginia; Randy Schultz, a 205-pound fullback from Iowa State college and 235-pound Jim Waskiewicz of Wichita State.

Both teams spent the first two days of practice in a steady drizzle. Non-contact group work has been the order for both days with South quarterback Randy Johnson from Texas A&I and Yank tossers Bill Anderson, Tulsa, and Gary Lane, Missouri, working on their passing.

South signal-caller Steve Sloan of Alabama, hampered by bruised ribs, has not participated in practice yet. He is expected to begin light work Wednesday and hopes to be ready to play Saturday.

But Sloan said Tuesday, "The ribs are still sore. I just don't know whether I will play or not."

Meanwhile, South workouts have also developed a pattern that indicates which players are likely to take the field when the Rebs are on defense.

Four-Timer

Lionel Taylor, the end for the Denver Broncos, is the only player to win a statistical title four times in the American Football League.

Taylor led the league in pass receiving for its first four seasons — 1960 through 1963. In 1964, he finished second to Charlie Hennigan of the Houston Oilers.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS

The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than legal minimum wages or pay wage differentials based on sex. Most employes engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 an hour and time and one-half for hours worked over 40 in a week. Beginning September 3, 1964, most employes in certain large retail service, construction and other enterprises engaged in or producing goods for commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and time and one-half for hours worked over 42 in a week. The Act also requires equal pay for equal work for men and women. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act, call or write the U. S. Labor Department's local office at 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y., 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Showdown Looms Over Leaders in Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A showdown loomed today between the Dominican rebel movement and the provisional government over the nation's military chiefs.

Quiet During Fete

There were indications, however, that Santo Domingo might remain quiet until after celebration of the Feast of the Magi Thursday, traditional end of the Christmas season.

What happens after that depends on how student, labor and professional ranks react to an attack on the government by two important political figures — former President Juan Bosch, head of the Dominican Revolutionary party, and Hector Aristy, one of the closest advisers of the leader of the April rebellion, Col. Francisco Caamano Deno.

The two censured provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy for not taking a firmer stand against the military leaders in his report Monday on the Dec. 19 battle between former rebel fighters and regular army troops in Santiago. A dozen men were killed.

The faction represented by Aristy and Bosch has been clamoring for the dismissal of the military chiefs since the April revolution. They accuse the military leaders of wantonly bombing the city during the revolt and of instigating the Santiago incident. The military has rejected the charges.

Guilt on Both Sides

In his radio-television speech Monday, Garcia-Godoy said his government was in no position to decide who was responsible for the outbreak in Santiago. He implied there was guilt on both sides.

He announced that an "important number" of rebel and army officers would be sent abroad on study and diplomatic missions. Authoritative sources said 30 officers ranging in rank up to colonel were involved.

Garcia - Godoy said Monday they would leave within a few hours. But they had not left Tuesday night, and there were reports that he was considering including some higher-ranking men.

Officials of the Organization of American States and some diplomats praised the president's remarks as moderate and statesmanlike. Rebel followers saw it as a repudiation of their demand for dismissal of the military high command.

Only just begun, the age of manned space flight already has brought the moon almost within grasp. Even the planets and stars beyond no longer seem quite so distant. In five short years, a growing band of American astronauts and Soviet cosmonauts has vastly expanded the frontiers of man's knowledge and experience, proving out techniques of space travel at a pace few could have predicted. 1965, the greatest space year yet, saw the United States spurt ahead with a string of brilliantly successful Gemini missions. Ahead are five more rendezvous and docking missions in 1966, paving the way for three-man Apollo flights in 1967 and men on the moon by 1970.

U.S. LEADS

- Orbital missions (9)
- Man-hours in space (1,352)
- Longest flight (Gemini-7—206 orbits, 5.7 million miles, 330 hours 36 minutes)
- Rendezvous in space (Gemini-6 and 7)
- Longest space walk (White, Gemini-4)
- Propulsion by space gun (White, Gemini-4)

U.S.S.R. LEADS

- Capsule weight (Voskhod-1 and 2—estimated 16,000 pounds)
- Rocket thrust (Voskhod-1 and 2—estimated 900,000 pounds)
- Three-man flight (Voskhod-2)
- Scientist in space (Feoktistov, Voskhod-2)
- Woman in space (Tereshkova, Vostok-6)

Pa. Solons Begin As They Left Off

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A new Pennsylvania legislative session will tackle the fiscal 1966-67 state budget, but it appears destined to be as discordant as the 1965 session which ended as it began—on a note of partisan disagreement.

Senate Republicans and House Democrats, who battled continually the entire 12 months of the 1965 session, were unable to agree on a quitting time Tuesday.

The Senate went ahead and adjourned the 1965 session and immediately opened the 1966 session—which is limited to fiscal matters and constitutional amendments—at noon, the hour fixed by the constitution.

House Democrats, claiming they had unfinished business, kept the session going until 4:33 p.m. even though every one of the 39 pieces of legislation they enacted was automatically dead when the Senate quit.

Reagan Criticized After His Formal Entry on Coast

Los Angeles (AP) — Ronald Reagan's decision to run for the Republican nomination for governor provided California with a new style of politics today and touched off more bitterness in a heated Republican primary campaign.

In Sharp Contrast

A half-hour film, shown on 16 television stations, introduced Reagan to the voters Tuesday-night — a sharp contrast to the rallies, dinners and news conferences candidates have traditionally used to tell the people they will run.

The viewers saw him standing in a relaxed manner in a comfortably furnished den — it was a studio set — talking calmly of state affairs. Gone were the placards and bands of past years.

He conceded he was a political novice, aspiring to be chief executive of the nation's most populous state.

"I am not a politician in the sense of ever having held public office, but I think I can lay claims to being a citizen politician," he said.

Backers of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown, expected to seek a third term, issued a 12-page statement criticizing Reagan's announcement. Its message: "Reagan is simply wrong."

Two announced candidates for the Republican governorship nomination were quick to criticize.

Former Assemblyman Laughlin E. Waters said the announcement will give the party a chance to decide whether it chooses "to attempt again positions which were overwhelmingly rejected nationally and in California during the last election or whether it will return to the moderate and winning position.'

Christopher Confident

George Christopher, former mayor of San Francisco, said Brown "would decisively beat Ronald Reagan." He chided Reagan for his acting background and said the people will prefer someone of "proven ability."

Reagan avoided mentioning his Republican opponents in the televised talk and at a news conference with some 100 reporters.

But Republicans who label themselves as moderates are lining up behind Christopher and Waters. These, generally, are those who supported New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's losing effort against Barry Goldwater in the 1964 California presidential primary. They say Reagan is too conservative.

Reagan, a cochairman of California Citizens for Goldwater-Miller two years ago, said he would seek the support of every element of the party in California.

"In this primary I will campaign against the opposition administration in Sacramento," he told the reception. "I will have no word of criticism for any Republican."

Today's supermarkets carry from 70 to 100 pet food items, compared with about 40 in 1957.

Want Equal Time

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Florida's national Democratic committeewoman says the Federal Communications Commission should grant Democrats equal time for any television program featuring Ronald Reagan.

"If the FCC fails to grant this request," she said Tuesday night, "I shall request the Democratic State Executive Committee to ask all its members and Democratic Party members to boycott not only the program but the sponsor's products."

Reagan announced in Los Angeles that he would seek the Republican nomination for governor of California.

The committeewoman, Mrs. Robert W. Baker, said "While Mr. Reagan is not seeking office in Florida, every time he appears on television, the Democratic Party is penalized."

She said she was asking the FCC to stop the screening of the "Death Valley Days" series, which Reagan hosts.

Storms Continue To Grip Pacific Northwest Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Floods and storms continued to plague areas in the Pacific Northwest today and snow, cold and gusty winds held a firm grip on sections of Montana the Dakotas and Minnesota.

In the far Northwest, more rain splashed coastal areas from central California to Washington and snow piled up across inland areas to Montana. Floods have forced more than 1,000 persons from their homes in northwestern California and western Oregon.

Below Zero

The mercury has been below zero for the last couple of days in some parts of northern Montana. The arctic air spread into the northern Plains from northwestern Canada. Below - zero readings were confined to northern Montana and the Dakotas into the Lake Superior district.

The leading edge of the icy blast appeared stationary along a line from northern Lower Michigan through northern Nebraska to southwestern Montana.

Temperatures held below zero Tuesday in cities from northwestern Minnesota across northern North Dakota to north central Montana. Top readings in Montana included -17 at Cut Bank, -13 at Great Falls and -12 at Havre.

More than 1,000 persons evacuated their flood-stricken homes north and south of Eureka, Calif. Several hundred families were forced from their homes by floods in western Oregon. Some major highways and rail lines in Northern California were closed by rain, snow and mud slides.

15 Inches Snow

Fifteen inches of new snow fell at Mt. Baker, in northwestern Washington, making a covering of more than 13 feet. The total amount of snow at White Pass, west of Yakima, was nearly 8 feet, including nearly 2 feet Tuesday.

In other parts of the nation, heavy rain fell in parts of southern Mississippi during the night, with nearly 1½ inches at Jackson and McComb. Rain also fell in the warm air along the Florida Coast. The mercury hit 83 at Sarasota, Fla., Tuesday a record high for Jan. 4.

Fry Drama Brightens Scene With Chapel Players Arrival

A mid-winter dramatic treat, offering one of the finest plays of the century is in store for art-conscious and culturally-hungry Woodstockers next month. Drama-in-the-Church bows in on the local scene Thursday, Feb. 3 at p. m. when the famed touring Chapel Players of Wagner College, S. I., present Christopher Fry's A Sleep of Prisoners at Christ's Lutheran Church.

Fry's much-performed thought-provoking drama of good versus evil is based on four prisoners of war who find themselves sharing a "cell" in a church in enemy territory. By locking them in together, the playwright uses their confinement to magnify their problems as they struggle to understand themselves and the world. Action revolves around a sequence of dreams in which each prisoner demonstrates his own inner response to events, extending himself, his companions and the problems they face onto a spiritual plane.

In Fry's conception, the immediate surroundings of the prison suggest Biblical protagonists to each dreamer, and the attempted murder of one soldier by his friend is seen successively as the story of Cain and Abel, of David and Absalom, and of Abraham and Isaac. Fry's theme is based on men as soldiers, trained to kill and maim, whose dreams are of killing, too, whether in anger, defense or as sacrifice. He has used old and familiar Bible stories in logical manner, pointing up the departure from useless slaughter that came with Abraham, and reasserting that killing is not a part of God's pattern.

Critics around the globe have praised the final dream scene of the men in the fiery furnace as having great power and illustrating the need for belief in God and the power of good. Fry's line in this scene, "The human heart must search 'to the lengths of God'," has been called a great sermon for today.

Woodstock is fortunate that Christ's Lutheran Church is sponsoring this appearance of the Wagner College Chapel Players. The Players, created to present contemporary drama with significantly religious themes to area audiences, have done much to cause awareness, insight, questioning and even controversy over man's relationship to himself, others and God.

Wagner students who will be performing here have been drawn from all departments of the college from all departments of the college, a four-year liberal arts institution on Staten Island which has gained fame for its drama courses, football and basketball teams, and one of the finest seminar programs in the east. The Players have produced more than a dozen plays in the past four years including such all-time greats as No Exit, The Diary of Anne Frank, The Sign of Jonah, The Cocktail Party, and last year's touring program of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible."

Their February performance at Christ's Lutheran Church will be open to the public and tickets will be available from members of the congregation on Monday, Jan. 17.

Lutheran Church To Hold Election

A pot-luck supper at 6:30 p. m. will precede the annual meeting of the congregation of Christ's Lutheran Church of Woodstock Tuesday, Jan. 11, in the fellowship hall.

During the meeting, members will elect five officers to the Church Council, the governing body of the church, as well as a secretary and treasurer. The congregation will also act upon the 1966 budget totaling $14,375. In addition, changes required in the church constitution will be voted upon and reports by the pastor, officers, auxiliary organizations and church committees will be presented.

One of Woodstock's oldest congregations, Christ's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Mill Hill Road, was organized in 1806 and will celebrate its 160th anniversary this year.

Mountain Slides Set At Tuesday Club Meet

The Tuesday Club of Woodstock will feature two special guests at a meeting planned Jan. 11. Mr. and Mrs. Edward West of Allaben have been invited to present a program of synchronized slides of the Adirondack and Catskill Mountains at next week's meeting.

A short business meeting at 1:30 p. m. will precede the slides program and refreshments will be served later in the afternoon by the committee in charge.

Sacrament Is Topic At Christian Science

"I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people." This promise from Jeremiah, along with many other Bible citations, is part of the communion service on "Sacrament" to be held in the Christian Science Church at Woodstock Sunday, Jan. 9.

Related passages to be read from the element in him struggled with the divine, our great Teacher said: 'Not my will, but Thine, be done.' — that is, Let not the flesh, but the Spirit, be re-presented in me. This is the new understanding of spiritual Love. It gives all for Christ, or Truth. It blesses its enemies, heals the sick, casts out error, raises the dead from trespasses and sins, and preaches the gospel to the poor, the meek in heart" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.)

The First Church of Christ Scientist, 85 Tinker Street, holds services each Sunday at 11 a. m. Sunday school, to which pupils up to the age of 20 are welcome, convenes at the same hour. Wednesday evening meetings, which include testimonies of Christian Science healing, are at 8 p. m.

P-TA Sponsoring Cards, Fashions

The Woodstock P-TA, currently carrying out its most active season in several years, will sponsor a card party and fashion show later this month. The two-part event is scheduled for Friday, Jan. 28 at Deanie's Restaurant.

Officers of the organization were quick to point out that the fashion show part of the program will be geared to appeal to both men and women. Arrangements have been made for Roger Jones of Woodstock Sport Shop to provide men's fashions and the distaff fashion donor will be announced shortly.

Mrs. Harry Sanger is serving as chairman of the event. Two awards will be made.

Adenauer 90 Today

BONN, Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer stood ramrod straight on his 90th birthday today as he received a long line of political leaders and diplomats at a reception in the House of Parliament.

One of the wellwishers who spent the longest time with the former chancellor was Soviet Charge d'Affaires S. M. Kudriavtsev, whose government Adenauer perennially opposes. Their conversation could not be overheard.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard was among the last in the line, introduced acerding to a previously prepared list.

Adenauer, West Germany's first postwar chancellor who led his country up from the ruins of the Third Reich, gave up the government helm in 1963. He has announced he will not seek re-election this year as chairman of the ruling Christian Democratic party. He retains his seat as the oldest member of the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament.

Asks Bank Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business Friday, Dec. 31.

Colder Air Due Friday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts for Upstate New York, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from Thursday through Monday:

Mild at the beginning, turning colder Friday and Saturday, with some moderation about Monday. Temperatures will average near or a few degrees below normal. Daytime highs will average in the 20s in the north to 30s in the south. Overnight lows will be in the 5-15 degree range, with some colder spots in snow covered areas.

Precipitation as snow or rain developing Thursday will change to flurries and possibly some snow squalls to the lee of Lakes Erie and Ontario on Friday. Chance of another period of snow or rain early next week.

History Book, World in 1965, Goes to Printer

Our big history book of the year, "The World in 1965," has gone to the printers and will be ready for you early in February.

It's the second notable issue prepared for this and 400 other member newspapers by The Associated Press, the world's foremost news-gathering organization. The 1964 edition, a best seller with nearly 100,000 already distributed, also still is available.

Not just another almanac filled with routine facts and tables, "The World in 1965" recreates the events of the year as no other book does.

A big book, 10½x12½ inches in size and 288 pages thick, it's bound handsomely in hard covers, and contains three dozen plates in full color, hundreds of dramatic news pictures, and scores of in-depth articles on the year's outstanding events. Lesser happenings are covered also. The authors are some of the best-known byline writers in The AP, including many who covered the events described.

It's an indispensable book for students and teachers, and also for anyone with an intelligent interest in the pageant of current history. It's an ideal layaway gift for any child who was born during the year. And bibliophiles who want a complete set of this series surely will want to order now while the books are still available.

This is all the more true since the cost amounts to only $3 — about one-third of what you would ordinarily expect to pay for a volume of this size and quality.

You can place your order now by sending a check for $3 for each copy desired to "The World in 1965," in care of this newspaper.

Report Is Made On '65 Building

City Building Inspector Joseph F. Smith today reported issuing 172 building and construction permits in 1962 at a total estimated construction cost of $1,219,395.

Permits were 33 less than in 1964 and last year's estimated construction cost was $1,586,170 under that of 1964. This was largely because the new county building figured in the 1964 estimates. Total value of 1964 construction was $2,805,565.

Issued for new buildings in 1965 were 23 permits at a total estimated value of $838,000. For additions 40 permits were issued with value at $273,950 and 24 private garages at $41,200. He issued 13 permits for alterations valued at a total of $34,965 and 20 for signs valued at $10,920.

For tanks and heat installations 16 permits were issued at a value of $9,985. Five permits were issued for swimming pools valued at $8,775, and five for fences at $1,600. Demolition permits totaled 26.

Dirksen Signals

interview that Congress is faced with three possible courses in meeting the mounting costs of the conflict in Viet Nam.

"We can either lay the Great Society program on the shelf, we can cut it way back or we can go ahead and vote all of the money the previous session authorized for them," he said. "We've got a war on our hands and I think some of these domestic programs can be scaled down."

Similarly, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford called for a reduction in domestic spending. He said that otherwise the kind of budget Johnson is proposing "means he is financing both guns and butter which will inevitably lead to a tax increase or to runaway inflation."

To accomplish budget cuts the Republicans would need Democratic support to succeed and Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., often a spokesman for party conservatives, indicated some will be forthcoming.

McClellan, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, voiced the opinion that Congress "may have undertaken going too far, too fast with too little" in approving so many of Johnson's domestic programs last year.

U. N. to Receive Public Report On Peace Mission

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States planned to give the United Nations a public report today on its worldwide moves for peace in Viet Nam.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, head of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, was to hand the statement to U.N. Undersecretary Jose Rolz-Bennett for relay to Secretary-General U Thant, vacationing in Trinidad-Tobago.

Goldberg scheduled a news conference immediately afterward.

The report was to be circulated to all 117 U.N. members.

Indications were that the report would provide the most detailed formal statement so far of the U. S. position on how to end the war in Suth Viet Nam and the first written explanation of the current U. S. pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam.

Goldberg announced in Washington Tuesday that President Johnson had authorized him to file the report "to communicate to the nations of the world the President's firm commitment to the cause of peace and the initiative we are taking in that direction."

"We are willing to negotiate," Goldberg told newsmen. "We hope that Hanoi is willing to do the same."

Clock Ends Session

BOSTON (AP- — It took the clock to end the 1965 session of the Massachusetts Legislature and lawmakers walked away today from the longest session in state history after a wild night of confusion and a last minute dash of tax debate.

Adjournment came at 11:59 in the senate and at 12 mindnight in the house — the deadline set by the state constitution.

The session was dominaed by a bitter deadlock on taxes and there was debate on taxes right up to the final moment in the house.

The legislature couldn't resolve the tax problem in 12 months and a final hour attempt to pass a $53.6 million tax measure also failed as the clock ran out.

For the first time, a Massachusetts Legislature was halted by the clock and could not finish its business. The longest previous session was in 1960 and that one lasted until Nov. 24.

Held for Assault

Raymond Millican, 16, of Route 1, Box 156, Saugerties, was arrested by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone on Tuesday on a charge of second degree assault. Before Justice William D. Brinner of Saugerties, Millican was committed to jail to await grand jury action.

Ellenville Man Charged

Thomas Brideau, 61, of 41 Main Street, Ellenville, was picked up in Ellenville by Ellenville police Tuesday and charged with petit larceny. Taken before Justice Frank Decker a 10-day jail sentence was imposed.

Shastri, Ayub Confer Today

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan met for an hour today in a private session which officials of both countries had said might determine whether the Tashkent summit conference yields significant results.

No Details Yet

There was no immediate indication of what transpired at the meeting. But Foreign Minister Swaran Singh and Defense Minister Y.B. Chavan of India met this afternoon with Foreign Minister Z.A. Bhutto of Pakistan for detailed discussion of issues Ayub and Shastri could take up later, an Indian spokesman said.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, the host for the conference which opened Tuesday, was reported urging both sides to push their 18-year-old dispute over Kashmir — the chief cause of trouble between the two nations — into the background.

Kosygin met with Shastri for nearly two hours Tuesday night and again for an hour this morning. It was reported both sessions revolved around the Kashmir issue and the apparent deadlock it has caused in the conference.

Indian sources said Kosygin also intervened personally to persuade Shastri and Ayub not to embarrass him by bickering over Kashmir in their public speeches at the opening of the conference. Both leaders forcibly restated their positions on the Himalayan state but spoke in relatively moderate language.

Seek Some Agreement

Now that they have entered the India-Pakistan dispute as mediators, the Soviet leaders want to obtain agreement on at least some of the issues dividing the two South Asian neighbors. Kosygin clearly is out to solve things if he can, rather than being just an amiable host providing a new forum for old arguments. Both the Indians and Pakistanis appear to believe Kosygin will wring concessions from the other side.

Shastri's public stance at the conference is that India and Pakistan must sign a no-war pact to establish a peaceful atmosphere in which minor problems can be solved.

He has indicated these could include normalization of diplomatic relations, increased trade, and a cessation of propaganda attacks now flowing from both countries.

Ayub contends the Kashmir quarrel is the main issue between India and Pakistan differences and must be solved first, before any no-war agreement.

Telephone interruptions annoyed even Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the instrument. Dr. Bell often stuffed a towel around the phone in his laboratory so he could work in peace.
